JOHN H. PHILBRICK

Music by ALTON L. ROBINSON

Four years we have labored together;
Four years of the best that we live.
We have learned how to mingle together,
How to take from our friends and to give.

We have had our hard times and our trials,
We have known both success and defeat.
But thanks to the work and the patience
At the end each successful we meet.

Many lessons our teachers have taught us,
Not always in books were they found;
But ever they've tried hard to show us
That our thoughts and our lives should be sound.

The flames have devoured our building,
We have lost all our treasures so dear;
But now may we all do our duty,
And work as the way is made clear.

And now as our school days are closing,
Each one his own path must pursue.
Let's remember, e'en while we are choosing,
To choose but the right and the true.
