ON U.S. ROUTE NO. 1. JUNCTION DANFORTH AND ST. JOHN STREETS

PORTLAND, MAINE

Welcome Summer Visitor:

We are greatly pleased that you are considering Maine for your vacation—a state that offers every opportunity for enjoyment at a cost surprisingly reasonable. You will find much information in this booklet which describes the seacoast section in the first half followed by the interior resorts.

Perhaps we can be of greatest assistance by finding the place to spend your vacation here in Maine to fit your vacation budget. Is it a luxurious hotel, a moderate priced hotel, a camp in the big woods, a cottage by the sea or inland lake, a quiet farmhouse, an overnight camp or private home that is your preference—tell us which it is that we may make further suggestions of interest.

Our tourist visitors constantly express surprise that so satisfactory a vacation can be enjoyed in Maine at such a moderate cost. It costs very little more than to stay at home—you can make it cost what you wish—depending on whether you want to keep "on the go" or just laze around and enjoy doing so.

If you plan to come by motor, you will want road information—if by train, boat, bus or air we will suggest the best service from your city, although your local transportation agents are always glad to aid in this respect. If you have any questions to ask, please do not hesitate to write us. We have nothing to sell—our service is FREE—its whole purpose is to help you to have the most enjoyment possible from your Maine vacation.

Won't you please use enclosed card to tell us what further information we can send you and call at our new headquarters building junction St. John and Danforth Streets when you come to Portland.

You will find the index in the back of this booklet helpful in locating places in which you may be interested.

After you have perfected your plans, we would greatly appreciate a note from you telling us if you have found our service helpful that we may know if we are doing our job well, and frank opinions from people like yourself are most helpful in future planning.

Cordially yours,

Manager

HIGHWAYS ARE ONLY AS SAFE AS YOU MAKE THEM

Why Maine Invites You

You can be as active as you please or as placid as you please in Maine. You can cling by your fingernails to the side of a mountain or doze on the sand.

But there are people who look upon the summer as the time to pack in long days at their favorite sport, after a long winter's famine. Maine is the place for it.

It's the place to learn about fishing, for one thing. Here's what one writer has said: "Do you like fly fishing on a wilderness river? Or is your special longing to cast a plug for small-mouthed bass on a spruce or pine bordered lake? Or troll deep for lake trout in hot weather? Or do you crave the green surf tumbling on a curving beach, and striped bass, lying just beyond the breakers? Perhaps you want even bigger game—the tuna and swordfish of the deep sea. Whatever you wish, it's yours. There are more tuna, striped bass and swordfish caught off the New England coast than anywhere in North America. The biggest striper ever caught on rod and reel—a 73 pounder—was caught in New England water."

Golfers, read this from "The American Golfer."

"Hand in hand with the development of New England's natural advantages has been its progress in golf. There are more than seventy-seven courses to choose from in Maine, with forty or more open tournaments each season. (These are detailed in a booklet "Golf in Maine" published by Harry C. Webber of Bath, Maine.) It could hardly be otherwise. Maine's topography, of a rolling nature that gives such a variety and character to the holes, is ideally adapted to the Royal and Ancient game, while the mountains, hills and valleys and bodies of water contribute the scenic effects which add a great deal to the enjoyment to be had in a round."

Most clubs have exchange arrangements for guest players; many hotels have course privileges for their guests. And there are public courses where the fee is fifty cents to a dollar a round. You'll enjoy the deep, springy, green turf which the climate gives, and you'll like the comfortable club houses and handsome surroundings.

Those who take their sport in or on the water know Maine's reputation. Hundreds of fresh water lakes and streams and miles on miles of sandy ocean beaches make it perfect for bathing and boating. Maine people have long been aquatic-minded and have developed bathing and boating facilities to the fullest.

There are all kinds of canoes and boats for hire, and they provide the most satisfying of summer days. You can almost name the temperature of water you like to swim in and find it, from the tingling chill of the northern coast and the mountain streams, to bland but stimulating waters at the long shelving beaches between Kittery and Portland. You can crash through breakers if you want to, or wade into quiet waters.

Maine is leading the way in another sport, horseback riding. Its old roads and its varied terrain combine to make the horse just about the ideal way to explore the country. Local groups have examined their territories and laid out bridle trails that ensure safety, comfort, beauty, and convenience. The trails lead through deep woods, past farm houses, up mountains. Stopping places have been arranged for at easy intervals and maps are provided. It is a recreation that is winning hundreds every year.

The same holds true for hikers. Different types of trips, from a gentle amble along a stream to a stiff session of mountain climbing, are available.

Spectator sports are numerous. Minor league baseball, horse racing tracks, with pari-mutuel betting, golf and tennis matches with nationally known stars enrolled.

Motoring itself is a sport that finds expression in Maine. So is flying, motor boat racing. There are dozens of outboard regattas on both fresh and salt water; as well as power boat and sailing races.

KITTERY, YORK, YORK HARBOR, YORK BEACH—
The traveler who enters Maine through its southern-most point, crosses the Piscataqua River over the "Portsmouth Bridge" into the historic town of Kittery. Settled in 1622, incorporated in 1651, it was the first town to receive a charter from Massachusetts Bay Colony. Here was built the Ranger, first ship to fly the Stars and Stripes, commanded by John Paul Jones.

At Kittery Point stands the mansion of Sir William Pepperell, who led the New England troops in 1747 in the siege of Louisburg, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

The United States Navy Yard at Kittery (erroneously called "the Portsmouth navy yard"), an extensive modern government plant, is well worth a visit.

The eastbound traveler continues on to York Village, with its colonial church, court house and museum built in 1653 for a jail. The Sewall Bridge, first pile drawbridge in America, although restored in 1933 still appears much as it did when sixty-four Minute Men marched across it April 21, 1775.

York was the first chartered city in America, founded by Sir Ferdinando Gorges in 1641, called Gorgeanna.

In 1652 the Massachusetts Bay Colony took over the Province of Maine and changed the name to York.

A mile below York Village is York Harbor, one of the high class summer resorts of New England. It is essentially a village of substantial and beautiful summer homes which are largely owned by their occupants, with a proper proportion of attractive rented cottages, first-class hotels and boarding-houses all constituting one of the distinctive and wealthy summer colonies of New England. At this point York River empties into the sea, and forms a convenient and safe port of entry for yachts, large and small, with coastwise ocean views.

At the Harbor, the Short Sands Beach, protected by two high headlands, affords ideal sea bathing. York Country Club, located a mile up river, is an old established and one of the most attractive eighteen-hole courses in New England—well bunkered and every variety of hazard. Ten tennis courts are maintained.

Along the shore, following the state highway 1A east, and distant four miles is York Beach, another large summer resort combining hotel and cottage life. Upon the rocky headlands, or bluffs, one of them tipped by "The Nubble" and its lighthouse, the unbroken Atlantic beats ceaselessly. Between York Harbor and York Beach stretching for a distance of nearly two miles is Long Beach, one of the broadest, smoothest and firmest stretches of sand, delightful for bathing.

OGUNKUIT—Bordering Ogunquit beach, sand dunes of picturesque character, with sea grasses, pushing their blades up through the surface, constantly shift from one formation to another. A two mile long tide water river parallels the beach extending northward for three miles. So many artists make their summer homes in Ogunquit that it is referred to as "The Artists' Colony." Exhibitions are held at the art center and in individual studios throughout the summer of the work of artists who enjoy a national reputation. Ogunquit offers to the summer tourist one of nature's beauty spots where he may meet America's best people. Bathing, sailing, fishing, motor-ing, golf and tennis are the principal pastimes in this summer resort of many hotels, some of which have few superiors in palatial grandeur.

Offshore is to be had that new northern salt water sport, trolling with heavy rods and reels for giant tunas running from two hundred to fifteen hundred pounds of swift and hard fighting game fish.

Bald Head Cliff and Pulpit Rock are outstanding scenic features of this entire stretch of shoreline, interesting to artists, photographers, the student of rock formations and those of us who like to take it easy and watch the surging sea pound itself against this rocky headland, breaking into spray at times a hundred feet or more high.

WELLS BEACH is a cottage colony with a fine white sand bathing beach reached from the village square of the town of Wells on main line U. S. One, and which was settled about 1640 and called Webhannet by the Indians. Its present name is for Wells, England. There are several hotels and other places for accommodation at Wells and Wells Beach.

It is a point of divergence, as is also Biddeford, to the inland town of Sanford where are located the famous Goodall-Sanford Mills and the home of Palm Beach Cloth.

KENNEBUNK BEACH—Like a bent silver bow between two rivers, its scalloped shore, glistening white sand beaches, and sheltered bay make it among Maine's celebrated coastal resorts. Nature has dealt kindly and abundantly in supplying this beauty spot with a diversity of outdoor recreations so much appreciated by a conservative and discriminating clientele.

Those who love that mysterious and ever beautiful wonder, the sea, never know which they admire most—the beauty and safety of the harbors, the gently sloping crescents of sun warmed sand, the perfume of the pine and spruce clad hills, the surf swept promontories, or the tang of the invigorating salt sea breezes.

Here you can enjoy bathing on the clean white beaches; golf on the ideal 18 hole Webhannet course, scene of the "Maine Open Amateur"; sailing; fishing; picnicking with fresh dug clams and live lobsters, cooked in steaming hot sea weed. Kennebunk Beach is the home of Kenneth Roberts, author of the historical novels, "Arundel," "The Lively Lady," and "Rabble in Arms." The town of Kennebunk was originally named Arundel.

MAINE'S CLIMATE

The 1932 meteorological summary of the United States Weather Bureau reads, "Maine has the healthiest climate in the country and the equal of any in the world summer and winter. This is largely due to a rare combination of pine woods, a down slope from the White Mountains, and the sea. A wind from any quarter is laden with health-giving qualities. Sunshine averages close to 60% and exceeds portions of Florida, North Carolina and other southern states. Moisture is ample and droughts are rare."

KENNEBUNKPORT AND KENNEBUNK—With scores of Old Colonial homes midst the elm shaded streets, silvery beaches and rocky headlands, superb modern hotels, summer cottages, situated on the beautiful Kennebunk river dotted with smart motor yachts, brilliant colored canoes and tiny fishing craft enthrall hundreds of vacationists.

Vacation at Kennebunkport of course means good fun, golf, tennis, dancing, sailing, fishing, surf-bathing, antiquing, and romantic views of sea and coast.

CAPE PORPOISE, close at hand, is a bold, rugged place where the ocean provides the chief charm. It is said that Captain John Smith gave this cape its name on his voyage of discovery along the Maine Coast in 1614.

GOOSE ROCKS, BEACHWOOD AND FORTUNES ROCKS, different names for a beautiful stretch of bathing beach and the engaging combination of seashore and country, are points of interest.

BIDDEFORD POOL has a substantial cottage and hotel development. Well known authors and artists including James Montgomery Flagg have their summer homes at the Pool.

BIDDEFORD AND SACO—Eight miles inland from the Pool are the thriving manufacturing and residential cities of Biddeford and Saco connected by bridges across the Saco River, home of the Pepperell Company, manufacturers of "Lady Pepperell" fine grade of cotton cloth. About two million yards of cloth leave the mills each week.

Biddeford is a point of divergence to the inland town of SANFORD, the largest town in the State and the Goodall Mills where Palm Beach Cloth is made. At the Sanford mills is probably made the fabric with which your automobile is upholstered as they are the largest producers in this country. A visit to this pretty, prosperous, progressive town and its woolen mills is always of interest. Guides will take you through the mills.

BAY VIEW is a place to relax for quiet rest, the southern end of a seven mile bathing beach second to none in the world, in an enjoyable environment of wooded growth, lawns and flowers where refined cultured people foregather in an atmosphere that is akin to happiness.

WHAT TO WEAR

Wear about the same garments in Maine during the summer months as at your home or when visiting most any American resort in the temperate zone, with a few exceptions notably that light wraps are needed for evening wear.

Sports clothes and Palm Beach suitings for men and women are worn very largely during the vacation period in Maine.

At some of the larger hotels formal dress is seen in the evening by those who like that sort of thing but others feel equally at home without it.

If you are going into camp in the lake and forest country women will need heavier clothing of wool texture such as divided skirts, slacks, jodhpurs or riding breeches, light weight flannel skirts, sweaters, suede coats, heavy boots with flat heels and wool socks and a rain coat or waterproof of some kind.

Men wear much the same as they do at home for golf or hiking and of course that favorite old hat that every real fisherman cherishes and without which he wouldn't think of casting a fly.

Why not wait until you arrive in Maine before replenishing your wardrobe. Visitors tell us that prices, almost without exception, are lower than in the large metropolitan stores at home.

There are excellent department and specialty stores in the larger cities of Maine and smart shops in resort centers.

TEMPERATURE

The average temperature during the daytime periods of July, August and September is about 70 degrees—sometimes it runs well up into the eighties, with ninety degrees on an average of three times a year, according to weather bureau records.

It always cools off after the sun goes down and there is scarcely a night that one or two blankets are not needed even in the summer.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH—The splendid sweep of firm, white sands that comprises Old Orchard's wonderful beach is famed the world over. Glistening sands and combing surf that defy comparison. Fourteen miles of fine, hard-packed sand; a beach approximately 700 feet in width, that dips ever so gradually into the invigorating tempered water of the sparkling Atlantic; clear and unpolluted water that averages all season from 64 to 75 degrees.

The beach stretches for miles eastward to Pine Point and westward to Bay View, and at low tide its broad expanse, curving along the crescent shore, offers one of the most princely playgrounds over which the blue sky bends. Add to this an exhilarating surf, the security which encompasses the bathers at their daily sport, and the cool sea breeze that nearly always blows, and it is not hard to understand the popularity of this old-established Maine resort. It has its steel pier, dance pavilions, shops, skating rinks, movie theaters, roller coaster and other amusement features.

PROUTS NECK—Because this neck of land stretches out into the ocean and is nearly surrounded by water, it always has a cool sea breeze. A country club provides for golf, tennis, and social affairs. There is a good bathing beach, with pleasant water, and entire freedom from undertow. Three rivers in the near neighborhood are delightful for canoeing and there is good fishing off the high rocks. There are many cottages and excellent hotels.

PINE POINT, SCARBORO, SCARBORO BEACH AND HIGGINS BEACH just north of Old Orchard Beach and part of the Maine Coast from Kittery to Cape Elizabeth are attractive surf bathing beaches.

TUNA FISHING IN MAINE

Anglers have found that there is an abundance of game fish and excitement to catch them in the salt water along the coast of Maine. Casco Bay and particularly off Bailey Island and the waters in the vicinity of Kennebunkport and Ogunquit have gained a reputation in recent seasons for their tuna fishing. Species of this fish taken along the Maine coast by sportsmen have ranged in weight from 75 to 800 pounds. Until the past three years it is probably true that the greater number of these fish which have been taken were harpooned rather than landed with rod, reel and line. This because of the fact that it was only realized recently that the "hoss mackerel" of the North Atlantic was the same as the tuna of the Pacific and that it could be taken on rod and line and this method of fishing for tuna is now largely employed by visiting sportsmen with satisfactory results.

Governor Lewis O. Barrows has offered a beautiful silver cup for the largest tuna taken on rod and line this year.

Cups are also offered by the Maine Tuna Club, the pioneer organization of the State and by the recently organized Bailey Island Tuna Fishing Club of which Captain Elroy Johnson is President. Their cup goes to the fisherman taking the largest tuna off that island.

SEA BASS COMING BACK

There has been a definite indication that sea bass were coming back to Maine rivers during the past three years. A number of specimens of this fish have been taken near the mouths of the Kennebec, Mousam, Saco and Kennebunk rivers. As a result, after investigation and public hearings, the commissioner of sea and shore fisheries, closed those waters to all bass fishing except with hook and line and limited the catch to five fish per person a day.

POLLOCK AND MACKEREL OFFER SPORT

While the average man who fishes for pollock does so as a deep sea commercial fishing proposition, in the past few years there has developed a class of sportsmen who go after them with light tackle.

Before the days of the seiner, most of the mackerel caught each year were taken on hand lines. Each man would use two lines. As a rule they used no bait. Instead they fished with what was known as a mackerel jig, a hook set in a lead sinker, the glitter of which attracted the fish.

Anglers looking for sport, learning about this, have tried going after these fish with light tackle, using a spoon hook and flies with excellent results. They found that an average sized mackerel on a light rod gave them a bang-up battle, with the result that once the word goes forth that mackerel are schooling along the coast the sportsmen are out for them.

The Danish Village

"Den Danske Landsby" (The Danish Village) is designed to simulate a little medieval Danish town or "By" of which Denmark has several—still well preserved. Some were walled and others were built between the arms of a river forming practically a moat with well guarded bridges and gates, and the town built snugly within. Self-preservation and protection against warring elements in the country and enemies from without were of first consideration in those early times; and the limited space within the walls or moat required that the houses be built closely together.

The Town, as here produced, is of course on a comparatively small scale, with no attempt at moat or walls, and is not a copy of a particular "By." It has about one hundred individual houses. The aim has been to represent truthfulness of style and detail, great age and atmosphere as shown by the variety of doors, windows and chimneys, the architectural purity of the Town Hall and the quaint picturesqueness of the narrow crooked streets with their old lamp posts. Note the sagging roofs and the irregularities produced by the heavy hand of time, the bird houses, weather vanes, the stork's nest with the stork and the characteristic fountain surmounted by the "Landsknecht" (soldier) with his halberd.

"Borgerne" (Citizens) are actively engaged in business judging from the signs above their shops. Here in "Borgergade" (Citizen Street) we have Hans Christian Andersen's sign proclaiming his bookshop; Niels Juel, Shipchandler; Hans Jorgensen, Snedkermester (Master Carpenter); etc. Most of the trades are represented—the butcher, baker and candlestickmaker—after the manner of the ancient, typical Danish town.

"Raadhusets Spisesal" (Town Hall's Dining Room) contains a richly decorated oak beamed ceiling and real fresco painted walls in the heraldic style of the middle ages and with the emblazoned arms of many of the noblest families of Denmark. The mail box in the vestibule is the same as those used in Denmark and was supplied by the Danish Government.

Great care has been exercised to hold to the spirit and dignity of the ancient town, but in order not to sacrifice any comfort, nearly all the rooms are equipped with twin beds, shower bathrooms and steam heat.

Eastern SAILS THE SPARKLING SEA LANES

Here is great news for Maine vacationists and travelers to and from the New York World's Fair. Eastern Steamship Lines has put one of its finest new ships into regular, weekly service between New York and Portland, Maine!

This service opens the gate to countless vacation haunts in Maine and throughout New England. There is no more refreshing way to start your down-east vacation than aboard the Acadia, where broad, sunny decks swept with tang-laden air soon make you forget hot city streets, traffic troubles, and rush of the workaday world. The night of sound slumber in a large, well-ventilated stateroom is a fitting prelude to the relaxation you will enjoy in Maine's inviting climate. At Portland you can make train connections for all inland points. If you wish to motor through Maine, the Acadia will carry your car at special, low rates.

World's Fair Travelers, Ahoy!

This year, in particular, the New York-Portland sea service will contribute to travel comfort. With traffic heavy along all roads leading to and from the New York World's Fair, the sea route provides a welcome means of dodging congestion. The Acadia offers New Englanders a direct and pleasant route to New York and home again.

To many Fair visitors who have never been to sea, or who have never seen the exciting Maine coast and inland New England, this all-water route gives opportunity for an inexpensive side trip that will never be forgotten. In addition to the wonders of sea scenery and the interesting sights "down east" are the hours to be enjoyed aboard ship.

Eastern Offers Her Finest Ship

The Acadia is truly a superb ship—a large, roomy, and modern, 10,000 ton ocean liner. On her broad decks, and in her great lounges, dining salon, paneled tap-room, cafe-ballroom, and commodious staterooms you will find the comforts and entertainment of a transatlantic crossing. Excellent meals. Dancing to a good swing band. Deck sports. First-run sound pictures . . . It's just like a cruise!

Consult the schedule below for a sailing that dovetails with your travel plans; then consult your travel agent, or communicate with Pier 19, North River, New York, or City Ticket Office, 5 West 49th St., Rockefeller Center, New York City; or State Pier, Portland.

PORTLAND

the vacation city on Casco Bay

Picture a cosmopolitan city of seventy-five thousand people built on a high peninsula less than a mile wide, nearly surrounded by water, swept by cool sea breezes, and bathed in sparkling clear sunshine; a city alive with gay summer throngs. That's Portland.

Portland, the metropolis of Maine, is a beautiful city. A handsomely landscaped Promenade overlooks Portland Harbor and Casco Bay busy with craft of all descriptions. The Western Promenade, with many fine private residences, overlooks a rolling country to the White Mountains sixty miles away and into sunsets beyond description.

Fine public buildings distinguish the City of Portland. Excellent hotels, comfortable tourist homes, splendid restaurants featuring Maine shore dinners, large department stores and specialty shops, good banking facilities, theatres, libraries, churches, art, historical and natural history museums.

Of particular interest is the birthplace of the poet, Longfellow. Also Portland City Hall where summer concerts are given on the Municipal organ, a gift to his native city from the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

Portland maintains a fine municipal golf course, bowling on the green, and a splendid public beach for salt water bathing. Within ten miles of Portland are nine golf courses. Variety, a new course every day.

Plenty of chance to enjoy sailing or motor boating; tuna and other deep sea fishing or fresh water lakes and streams, just a few miles from town. Trips by small steamer among the beautiful islands of Casco Bay; or a quiet spot with a cottage for the season to gratify your heart's desire on sea coast, island or lake.

Motor rides of endless variety. Short runs along the coast or back through the mountain and lake country. To Old Orchard or other famed Maine beaches. No finer summer headquarters than right here in the City of Portland.

To our visitors vacation-bound yet manufacturing-minded, a call at the Chamber of Commerce may reveal facts that will make you think of Portland for business as well as pleasure. The situation here is quite different than that so often encountered in crowded metropolitan centers. Many nationally advertised products are made in Portland. Shipping facilities, unexcelled, three R. R. terminals, municipal airport, transport and mail service, 3 miles from center of city. Excellent accommodations for all types of air transportation activity.

Why not write the Portland Chamber of Commerce today or the State of Maine Publicity Bureau at Portland and plan to come here this summer.

Portland, Maine

PORTLAND, blessed with more days of sunshine than any other Atlantic coast city north of Hatteras according to the report of the U. S. Weather Bureau is Maine's largest city and shares Maine's world-over fame for its clear air and ultra-violet rays.

Birthplace of the poet Longfellow—"That beautiful city that is seated by the sea."

The Wadsworth-Longfellow house, the home of the poet on Congress Street in the center of the retail district is the mecca of lovers of Longfellow poems. The Longfellow Garden Club of Portland has restored and maintains the garden as laid out by the poet's family around the home. This property is owned by the Maine Historical Society whose building adjoins the grounds and is well worth while visiting.

Crowning Casco's crest—loveliest and most picturesque island studded bay in all the world.

Finest harbor on the Atlantic coast, easy and safe of access, never ice bound. Deep lane for largest ships, straight in from open sea to piers. Only Atlantic port linked with the great West by a direct transcontinental railway—the Canadian National. Four other lines.

A charming residential and commercial city, and yet its many and varied smaller industries render it second manufacturing center in Maine.

First practical plant for the scientific conservation of food in hermetically sealed tins (in other words, canned corn, etc.)—precursor of a world-wide canning industry by John Winslow Jones, pioneer packer.

Birthplace of three great movements that have encircled the earth: Prohibition, inspired by General Neal Dow; Young People's Christian Endeavor which originated in the parlor of the pastor of Williston Church; first annual Knights Templar impressive Christmas observance, conceived and initiated by Stephen Berry, now religiously observed in every Masonic Temple throughout the world.

First Radio Church in America.

Birthplace of Cyrus Herman Kotschmar Curtis, the publisher; home of Robert Peary who planted the American flag at the North Pole; scene of James G. Blaine's youthful career on the editorial staff of the old Portland Daily Advertiser; birthplace and lifetime home of the immortal "Tom" Reed, Congressman-parliamentarian, and of William Pitt Fessenden, Abraham Lincoln's Secretary of War.

Settled by George Cleve in 1632. Twice burned and ruthlessly destroyed in cruel Indian Wars. Bombarded and burned by British ships under Mowatt in 1775. Ravaged by fire in 1866. Four times risen from its ashes, it has bloomed into one of America's fairest cities.

Distributing point to the great Maine vacationland through which more than a million tourists pass each season. Most excellent hotels, restful sea trips through Casco Bay, half an hour by motor to Sebago Lake, Longfellow's "sinuous Songo," land-locked salmon and trout.

Should you tire of these diversions, you may listen to the renowned Kotschmar organ, first municipal organ in America, gift of Cyrus H. K. Curtis to this city of his birth—one of the largest and the finest organs in the world.

The Portland Society of Natural History has maintained a creditable collection and exhibits for nearly 100 years. The Museum is located at 22 Elm Street, Portland, open to the public every afternoon 2:00 to 5:00. The recently acquired Dr. Brock collection of birds is of great interest to bird lovers.

The Portland Society of Art at the L. D. M. Swett Memorial Art Museum, 111 High Street, has art exhibits throughout the year and a school of instruction. Another art school is the Art Associates, 602 Congress Street.

ISLES OF CASCO BAY, generally reputed to number as many as the days of the year, but more conservatively estimated at 132, have no limit to the opportunities that they include for holiday sport and vacation enjoyment. Some have smooth beaches, admirable for bathing, many wild and rocky cliffs, most of which are heavily wooded. Local steamer lines maintain regular schedules between Portland and the island landings and from mainland points above the Foresides.

Northward and eastward of Portland, along shore, the journey lies through Falmouth, Cumberland and Yarmouth, towns that lie along Casco Bay, their shores known by the quaint old name "foresides" to distinguish them from the remainder of the locality, with beautiful views of inner Casco Bay and seashore diversions as well as nearby golf courses and Country Club enjoyments.

DRINKWATER INN YARMOUTH, MAINE

FREEPORT has an unique natural phenomenon in its "Desert of Maine." Fifty years ago a fertile field land, there are acres and acres of shifting vari-colored sands which are fast obliterating grasses, bushes, trees and even home and farm buildings. At one point it stretches away for nearly 75 acres and the total area now included in the desert is more than 200 acres. Each year sees an increase in the acreage, so that students who have visited and studied it are wondering where it will stop; what will be the eventual fate of the surrounding landscape.

Freeport is called "the birthplace of Maine" as it is claimed, though sometimes disputed by historians, that the papers separating Maine from Massachusetts were signed here.

BRUNSWICK, a few miles beyond the Foresides and Freeport, is the seat of Bowdoin College, and beneath its academic elms have sauntered in their student days the novelist Hawthorne, the poet Longfellow, and Franklin Pierce, afterward to be President of the United States. Here Elijah Kellogg laid the scenes of "Whispering Pine" series, inimitable stories of student life of long ago. Here also was written "Uncle Tom's Cabin," its author, Harriet Beecher Stowe, being the wife of a professor of Bowdoin. Maine Hall, the first of the college dormitories, was built 100 years ago. Among Bowdoin men who have roomed in Maine Hall are United States Senators William Pitt Fessenden, William P. Frye, President Franklin Pierce, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Elijah Kellogg, General O. O. Howard, General Joshua L. Chamberlain and Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller.

Just south of Brunswick lies Prince's Point, the Harpells, Bailey and Orr's Islands, spruce-crowned and well equipped with hotels and cottages and the center of tuna fishing activities.

BATH is a rarely beautiful old New England City with streets shaded by great elms; its residential section has many fine old mansions, the homes of the many famous shipbuilders and master mariners who made Bath's fame as a shipping city world-wide. It was on the banks of the Kennebec River, a short distance below Bath, that in 1607, thirteen years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, the Popham colony built the first vessel constructed by civilized hands in the new world.

SEBASCO is divergent from Route One at Bath and possesses rare combinations of vacation charms, a private bathing beach and sun heated bathing pool, rocky points, boating, deep sea fishing, golf and tennis and also canoeing close by a large fresh water lake Wat-tah. Trails through the firs, spruces and pines and a mountain from the summit of which may be seen at night a half score of lighthouses sending out their warning but cheerful beams.

The golf course is one which attracts for its natural beauty as well as its sporty layout.

Sebasco property for several miles is bonded against the pest of mosquitoes, extermination work having been done, following a special survey by the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

WISCASSET on Route One, the Atlantic Highway, was once a prosperous seaport. Gone are the hustle and bustle of sawmills and shipyards, of arriving and departing ships but in their place has come a delightful and beautiful peace. In this era of fast speeding changes it is interesting to drop back awhile to a time when life moved more slowly. In Wiscasset you may, if you wish, recapture something of the feeling of peace and poise we like to think our ancestors possessed. Here you will find the same elm shaded streets and fine old homes that were here in late 1700 and early 1800. Many of these homes will be open to visitors on the Annual Open House Day August 16, 1939. Modern Inns and tourist camps provide for the traveler even as did the old taverns in their day.

The Modern Town Rich in History

The house shown here is situated in a village of great beauty. The Sheepscot river widens out into a deep and ample harbor with the Atlantic ocean not far away. Vessels have cleared from here to every quarter of the globe. Other houses like this one are charming homes. Some of these will be open August 16 of this year to visitors. What may be of special interest to home seekers there are houses for sale whose beginnings go back more than a century.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, reached from Wiscasset, is a quaint old seaport, a short distance off the main line of travel. It has a splendid safe anchorage harbor and is the rendezvous of yachtsmen cruising the Maine Coast during the summer months. There is a summer stock company. Nationally known artists come here every summer and there is always an exhibition of paintings.

BOOTHBAY is an elongated town which includes the summer groups of Isle of Springs, Sawyers Island, Barkers Island, Bayville, Murray Hill. There is an excellent nine hole golf course at Boothbay Center and a well developed recreation center with salt water swimming pool, tennis courts, solarium, etc. at Back Narrows. Yachts of all kinds are built at East Boothbay. Ocean Point affords a beautiful shore drive and unexcelled surf scenes.

Boothbay region includes Boothbay Harbor, East Boothbay, Bayville, West Boothbay Harbor, Southport, Capitol Island, Linekin, Ocean Point, Newagen and others.

NEWAGEN is the ocean front point of land in that section, connected to the mainland by drawbridge and backed by a heavy growth of spruce which, with the sea, forms a barrier that keeps out pollen grains to the relief of those sensitive to hay fever conditions.

CHRISTMAS COVE while geographically the southern end of Rutherford Island, is virtually part of the mainland, being connected by a bridge. Here precipitous cliffs face with bold defiance the Atlantic's broad flood; here, deep and dense, stretch groves of fir and spruce; here a grassy meadow slopes to the verge of a peaceful little bay. This rare variety is indeed the charm of this well favored section of the Maine coast.

SQUIRREL ISLAND is the objective of much vacation travel, as it is the oldest resort along this section of the shore. "Squirrel" is the summer home of many of the members of our college faculties, a famous Maine editor and a large representation of some of the brightest lights in the literary, art, professional and business world.

SOUTHPORT is one of many beautiful islands on the Maine coast, six miles in length and three miles at its widest part and connected with the mainland by a drawbridge over the Samoset river, a beautiful arm of the sea. Here you may see the Schooner "Bowdoin" of the Donald MacMillan arctic expeditions.

MONHEGAN ISLAND, rising from the sea ten miles off shore, attracts by its sheer picturesqueness and restfulness a loyal summer throng. The whole of Monhegan Island seems to be one immense rock rising to a considerable height out of the sea and yet having a remarkable spruce area in the bowl-like center of the island. For over thirty years artists have been coming to Monhegan, attracted by the wild beauty of the place, many coming year after year and building summer homes.

NEWCASTLE and DAMARISCOTTA are the center of an inviting lake and river section only a few moments' ride from the seashore. Historically it has colonial homes of interest, its vast deposits of oyster shell heaps along the rivers, the largest kitchen midden in the world and nearby is historic Pemaquid.

Maine Invites You

Zestful climate, multiplicity of natural advantages, peopled by generations born to the fishing rod, the gun, and the saddle and skilled in the sports of the old world from which they come, Maine is a sportsman's homeland.

In late August and through September county fairs or as they are sometimes called, "cattle shows" or "agricultural fairs" are in full swing in various towns throughout the State, and most interesting to out of state visitors. Here you may see agricultural products of all kinds, handicraft such as hooked rugs, bedspreads, table cloths, etc., made by the women on the farms and food stuffs which they have "put up" for the winter, in a large building usually designated as "Agricultural Hall." The Grange ladies serve excellent dinners of real Maine food cooked as only Maine housewives know how.

There are pulling matches by great oxen, pure bred cattle and poultry of all kinds in stalls and pens, a half mile or mile track for trotting horse races and something of interest going on every moment of the day.

September and October are the months when the change in season has painted the foliage of maples, ash and oaks with lavish splashes of vibrant color, with the State's natural scenery a fitting background.

Days are crystal clear affording unparalleled views from mountain peaks. But frequently there is the autumn haze so characteristic of Maine, a soft vapour on the horizon that dissipates as one approaches it, lending glamour to the vista.

Motoring in Maine on autumn days affords unalloyed pleasure. Less traffic, glorious vistas of flaming hillsides, the crisp, invigorating air of early morning mellowing into the warmth of Indian summer later in the day. Rich farmlands lie fallow in the hues of harvest time. Autumn visitors find hotels and inns open well into November (many have reduced rates after Labor Day) and every facility for the comfort of their guests.

The healthful recreation of golf, horseback riding, mountain climbing, hiking and tennis is enhanced by the invigorating air of autumn days. Then there are harvest suppers, field dog trials—an endless variety of fun, frolic and recreation. Good things to eat taste even better at this time of year. Nights are restfully cool—a Harvest moon sails o'erhead and laughs at insomnia.

A winter's vacation or a week-end spent in Maine accompanied by New England hospitality is one to be long remembered and cherished. The snow-capped hills with open fields and pastures, the mountain trails, and the many ski developments make ideal alpine skiing. The many miles of logging and tote roads are ideal for snow-shoeing and cross country skiing. The hundreds of lakes gives excellent facilities for skating, ice-boating, and fishing. Coasting, tobogganing, curling, in fact any branch of winter sports, is at your command.

Maine has made rapid advancement during the past few years and there are now more than twenty-four areas, which have special developments for the winter sports enthusiast. These include many ski tows, ski jumps, toboggan slides, skating rinks, hundred of miles of excellent mountain and down hill trails and acres of open slopes for the beginner or novice. You can ski in safety in Maine.

The Maine Winter Sports Federation and the Maine Development Commission have co-operated in publishing a winter sports booklet giving complete information on location, facilities, distances, exposures, average depth of snow, grades, ratings, parking areas, and accommodations for the benefit of enthusiasts who come to Maine by car or on snow trains. Copies of this may be secured by writing the Maine Publicity Bureau, Portland, Maine.

SECTIONAL MAPS OF MAINE

Are available of those sections which have been surveyed and mapped by the U. S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. A key map showing what parts of the State are covered costs twenty-five cents and the various quadrangles, into which the State has been divided, cost ten cents each.

They may be purchased of the Department in Washington, D. C. and are on sale at leading book stores in the various cities.

"WHERE SEA, CLIFFS AND SPRUCE FORESTS MEET"

WALDOBORO was settled in 1748 by German emigrants. At attractive summer town, ten miles from ocean tidal water, with the tang of the sea in the air.

FRIENDSHIP, with its Martin Point, is a colony in all that the name implies, on Muscongus Bay, delightful people, attractive summer homes.

THOMASTON, the western gateway of the famous Penobscot Bay and River Region, was the home town of General Henry Knox, Washington's chief of artillery, Secretary of War from 1785 to 1795, and founder of the Order of Cincinnati. The new Montpelier, his restored home, attracts many antiquarians and students of colonial history.

ROCKLAND, the metropolis of the Penobscot Bay region, is the trading center for many delightful adjacent resort communities. Socially the summer life is brilliant and the pastimes are manifold. There are pleasant hotels and inns, adequately equipped to care for those who stop for a night or for an extended period. Of particular note at Rockland is the beautiful deep water harbor busy with craft of all description. Many a fine yacht takes advantage of the facilities at Rockland's municipal landing.

For the salt water fisherman there is cod, haddock, pollock in quantity and occasionally halibut, tuna and swordfish. There are innumerable lakes and streams nearby for fresh water fishing.

A short distance from the city, the Megunticook Range rises abruptly from the ocean in rugged beauty and grandeur. From its summits one views Penobscot Bay and the open Atlantic to the eastward, and a panoramic expanse of forest, lake and stream unequalled to the westward.

Nine hole courses at the Rockland Country Club and Sam Oset Hotel, both in excellent condition, with natural and artificial hazards.

ROCKPORT, on one of the most beautiful little harbors on the coast, is summer social center of many well-known families. Many musicians of world fame summer at Rockport, giving numerous concerts during the season.

It is a yachting center with week end regattas and water sports and social activities.

CAMDEN, over which the blue Camden Mountains stand like sentinels, is a delightful village. The combination of mountains and lakes and sea makes an impression that is not soon forgotten.

Camden has one of the finest harbors on the coast for visiting yachtsmen who are always welcome at the Yacht Club. The occupants of the many summer homes at Camden enjoy a constant round of every type of outdoor recreation featuring particularly sailing races several days each week. The Camden Hills National Park is a scenic paradise. The winter sport activities at the Camden Snow Bowl are becoming nationally known.

ISLESBORO, DARK HARBOR, NORTH HAVEN and VINALHAVEN are among the beautiful island towns in Penobscot Bay reached from Rockland by steamer where many handsome homes dot the rugged shore line, and harbors. Excellent hotels and modest accommodations are equally attractive. Isle au Haut farther to sea offers much of great charm and simplicity.

LINCOLNVILLE, NORTHPORT, both extremely attractive summer communities offering many opportunities for cottages and homes for summer occupancy.

BELFAST is a city of fine living, of beautiful homes under towering elms, of comfortable accommodations, of all the quiet pleasures of the Maine Coast. Shipping days built up the handsome old town for later generations to enjoy.

The Belfast City Park invites trailers. Salt water bathing may be enjoyed either in an enclosed pool or in the open surf. Attractive cottages, comfortable hotels and many fine homes and overnight camps. The country inland is picturesque, with beautiful lakes offering excellent trout, salmon and bass fishing and set among hills. The city maintains a fine yacht landing—boats of all sorts are available for excursions on the Bay and ocean.

SEARSPORT is an old shipping town in which is located Penobscot Marine Museum with exhibits of ship paintings, models and other marine objects perpetuating the shipping history of the Penobscot Bay and River region. The well known authors, Lincoln Colcord was born here and is a year round resident and Ben Ames Williams, spends long summers here.

STOCKTON SPRINGS is centrally located to several small communities, where summer residents have restored delightful old homes for their vacation headquarters.

PROSPECT and FRANKFORT, small river communities with many conspicuously beautiful locations for modest summer home construction.

WINTERPORT and HAMPDEN are Penobscot River towns of distinctive character. Many fine old homes occupied by delightful summer visitors and where similar opportunity still offers attractions. On the opposite shore of the Penobscot is ORRINGTON situated high above the river, a town that has much to offer in good substantial Maine life.

BANGOR gateway to eastern and northern Maine and with BREWER, the northern gateways of the Penobscot Bay and River Region, on opposite sides of the Penobscot river, 35 miles from Penobscot Bay, and terminals of navigation on the Penobscot, together form one of the chief centers of Maine in point of population and trade importance. The many handsome residences on broad, shaded streets are the homes of influential citizens of the State. The social order is characterized by good taste and hospitality. Excellent hotels are found here, and the cities are a distributing point to the playgrounds of the eastern Maine shore, northern and eastern woods and lake regions, and to those which lie beyond the international frontier. Close by is the famous Bangor salmon pool from which the first sea salmon caught in the spring is sent each year to the President of the United States.

BUCKSPORT, at the eastern end of the Hancock County bridge offers many opportunities for tourist headquarters centrally located for motor trips to many famous resort communities. A few miles beyond is the town of ORLAND, the eastern gateway of the Penobscot Bay and River Region, from which easy access is had to many outlying resort towns.

DEER ISLE and STONINGTON, both island towns, offer much of great scenic beauty and a wide variety of summer activity with attractive accommodations and many summer homes.

ELLSWORTH is a thriving city. Of tourist prominence is the Black Mansion, a famous Colonial home, filled with priceless Colonial furniture and antiques, rare books, dishes and glassware, old carriages, said to rival those at Mount Vernon, bequeathed by George Nixon Black for use as a public park and museum. An example of a splendid tradition which with its furnishings has remained intact. It was inherited from Mrs. Black's father, General David Cobb of Washington's staff. It is the Gateway to Mount Desert Island as well as to Washington County.

MOUNT DESERT ISLAND

The early history of Mount Desert Island is linked with that long struggle between France and England for supremacy in America. Here in 1613, at the entrance of Somes Sound, when the English ship Treasurer captured the French ship Jonas and destroyed the Jesuit settlement at the foot of Flying Mountain, began that long series of battles ending, nearly 150 years later, when Montcalm Penobscot Bay Region offers the motorist the most beautiful stretch of scenery on the Maine coast. Here Highway No. 1 runs for forty or fifty miles beside the water, on high ground overlooking superb vistas of islands, hills, and rocky shores, with the intensely blue waters of Penobscot Bay in the foreground. Every rise in the highway opens up a new and breath-taking view.

Driving north on Highway No. 1, the gateway to the Penobscot region opens at Thomaston. General Henry Knox, Washington's friend and the first Secretary of War, built here his mansion of Montpelier. The reproduction of this mansion, containing most of the original Knox furniture, is open to the public as a museum.

Off to the right from Thomaston and Rockland, lie the picturesque fishing villages and summer colonies of Port Clyde, Tenants Harbor, Ash Point, and Owl's Head, beloved of artists and cruising yachtsmen. For those who like the sea, Owl's Head, looking out over the smoky Atlantic, is one of the most delightful spots along the coast. Rockland is the mart of the lower bay. Here boats leave for North Haven, Vinalhaven, Swan's Island, Matinicus and other island resorts. Off Rockland harbor is the official trial course of the United States Navy; some naval vessel on her trial trip is usually to be seen lying at anchor in the port.

At Camden, with its fashionable summer colony, the beautiful Camden Hills dominate the scene. Across a stretch of open water lies the island of Islesboro, summer home of diplomats and prominent figures in American life. A car ferry to Islesboro runs from Lincolnville, just below the broad sweep of Lincolnville Beach. Beyond Northport, where a good golf course is available, we come to Belfast, the shire town of Waldo County. Here fine old houses once more attest the wealth and activity of a proud shipping past. The City Park at Belfast offers excellent sea bathing.

to the Penobscot Bay Region

On the highway between Belfast and Searsport the whole reach of Penobscot Bay lies in view. The town of Searsport is known as "the home of sea captains." The Penobscot Marine Museum has been founded here to perpetuate the shipping history of the region. In Stockton Springs may be visited the remains of Fort Pownal, near the lighthouse at Fort Point—built in 1759.

We now come to the mouth of the Penobscot, the largest and most beautiful river in Maine. The Waldo-Hancock Bridge crossing this river below Bucksport, with its setting of pine-clad approaches and magnificent river view, is recognized as the most artistic suspension bridge along the Atlantic seaboard. At its western end lies historic Fort Knox, a fine example of early masonry, begun at the time of the Aroostook War in 1839 and finished during the Civil War.

Leaving Bucksport and Orland we turn south on Route 175 to Castine on the eastern shore, perhaps the gem of all the Penobscot towns. Its site marks one of the earliest settlements in America. It has been held by the French, Dutch, and British at different times during the Colonial period.

Beyond Castine the route crosses Brooksville to Sargentville, Sedgwick, and Brooklin on Eggemoggin Reach. A suspension bridge has just been completed crossing the Reach from Sargentville to Deer Isle. Here we have completed the fifty-mile circuit of Penobscot Bay, with its three hundred islands, its countless coves, its handsome and substantial towns, and its scenic beauty second to none.

SUMMER PLAYHOUSES

An enjoyable feature of vacationing in Maine is the opportunity afforded by the many summer theaters presenting Broadway successes by leading players whose names are household words, names which are blazoned in electric signs above New York's Great White Way in the winter show season.

Of the modern day movement in summer theaters Lakewood, a few miles from Skowhegan, Maine, was the pioneer. There, New York successes are now produced nightly by well-known Broadway and Hollywood actors, and literally bring "Broadway to Maine."

Next in order of importance, perhaps, is the Ogunquit Players at Ogunquit, with its attractive and modernly equipped new theater building, built two years ago, which offers Broadway talent comparable with any theater in this country.

One of the most unique and beautiful summer theatres in the country is the Deertrees Theater at Harrison, the building itself one worth driving many miles to see. Here too, you will find actors and actresses well known in theatrical world.

Other attractive summer theaters and performers are the Boothbay Players, Boothbay; the Garrick Players, Kennebunkport; the Island Players at Chebeague Island in Casco Bay; the Surry Players, Surry—near Bar Harbor; and the Barnstormers at Poland Spring.

Convention Months in Maine

Outstanding resort and city hotels give unusual opportunities for your convention. At the resort locations you might enjoy a round of GOLF, a couple hours' FISHING, a little SUNNING on the beach, a short SAIL off Maine's RUGGED COAST, a dip in the SURF or off the springboard, a set of TENNIS, a ride a-HORSEBACK or by motor along Maine's restful COUNTRYSIDE. Such surroundings keep your group together during all the convention,—appeal especially to the ladies.

Maine's resort hotels as well as those in the population centers give you the fine food, the soft, sleepy beds and the exact attention to the needs you expect from good inn-keeping. In Maine there's a little extra flavor about characteristic Maine food, an extra sincere hospitality.

Broad, pleasant-to-drive roads lead you to such locations quickly, easily. Rail services offer modern transportation, friendly cooperation in arranging special speedy trains or private cars; air travel from the Eastern cities to Maine is only a matter of minutes and there's steamship service from New York, too.

Selling the Agricultural and Sea Food Products of the State of Maine

Sharing the fame of Maine's recreational facilities are a number of foods and food products which reach their peak quality in the Pine Tree State—State of Maine Potatoes, Maine Canned Sweet Corn, Blueberries, Beans and Peas, State of Maine Lobsters, Clams, Scallops, Shrimps and other sea foods.

We have long known that one of Maine's appealing attractions as a vacation land are the appetizing, wholesome native foods, not only as served by our great resort hotels and restaurants, but in wayside inns, camps and tourist homes as well. We have always considered that an appetite for good Maine foods cooked the Down East way, to be an important reason for the number of visitors who come back to Maine to vacation year after year.

In 1936 Maine embarked upon a comprehensive food products marketing program, the first step in which was to establish an official State trade-mark for its graded quality products of the soil and sea. The small designs of this trade-mark are shown at the bottom of this page as applied to various of the products which are now being promoted in national and sectional advertising under the direction of the Maine Development Commission.

While Maine's summer visitors have always acclaimed the quality of State of Maine foods, few of them, we believe, realize the importance of Maine as an agricultural state. Maine ships more potatoes each season than any other state in the Union, Aroostook, Piscataquis, Penobscot and Waldo Counties having long been known as America's "Potato Empire," these four counties alone producing about 44,000,000 bushels of potatoes annually. As a result of the potato marketing program, State of Maine Potatoes are now to be found in retail markets as far West as the Mississippi River and South in substantial quantity in Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and even into Florida, Georgia and The Carolinas.

It is no idle boast that "It takes Maine soil, Maine climate and a Maine grower to produce a Maine potato." The highly mineralized glacial soils of these northern counties imparts a special flavor to State of Maine Potatoes, gives them keeping qualities that permit our Maine growers to store them after the digging season in September until they are shipped down to our large metropolitan markets in a season that lasts from late fall to late May or early June of the following year.

State of Maine Sweet Corn is another crop of which the State is particularly proud. Our canners annually produce about 60,000,000 cans of Maine Sweet Corn, supplying the demand for a premium quality pack over most of the Eastern, Middle Atlantic and Midwestern States. Our packers have had long experience, for it was in the State of Maine that foods were first processed (canned) in a commercial way and the canning industry thus born. Beans, peas and other vegetable products are also grown in large quantities in Maine and processed for the housewives in the Eastern part of the United States.

Maine holds the distinction of producing the largest blueberry crop in the Union and ships its fresh fruit to all of the markets of the Eastern Seaboard, canning in addition about 95% of the blueberries packed in this country and marketed in every State in the Union.

The orchards of Maine produce apples of the finest flavor, small fruits and berries in profusion, all given that finer flavor that nature imparts to these products as the result of Maine's short growing season, the warm days, cool nights and evenly spaced rainfalls.

Sea foods also comprise an important industry in Maine. A State of Maine Lobster is recognized by epicures to be "the sea's greatest delicacy at its best." To enable sea food lovers to distinguish the superlative Maine Lobster from ordinary varieties, they are now trade-marked with an identification tag attached to the large claw. This trade-mark also protects housewives against the substitution of crawfish and South African lobster tails, which are frequently offered in sea food markets, hotels and restaurants for genuine lobster.

Gulf of Maine Deep Sea Scallops are another great delicacy for which the State is famous, together with a long list of other sea foods caught in the cold Atlantic waters off the Maine Coast and shipped both fresh and canned to most of the markets in the Eastern States.

Enjoy these Maine products while you are visiting Maine and when you return to your homes ask your retailers for State of Maine products of the soil, orchard and sea.

Established in 1919, Acadia National Park comprises not only the Mount Desert Hills but also the beautiful Schoodic Point on the mainland. Its wonderful topography, majesty, wildness and beauty are unsurpassed. Geologists say that the world has no more interesting formations; that the colossal "granitic outburst" of the mountain range is the greatest event in the island's history; that no one can measure its former height nor its unsounded depth.

The Park is preserving the varied indigenous flora; it is a sanctuary for birds and wild animals; here are biological laboratories where scientists study marine life; a branch of the Maine Forest Service studying the trees; an Archeological Museum and the noted Sieur de Monts Spring.

Numerous trails wind through the valleys and ascend to every mountain top. Gateways lead to many miles of excellent roads reserved for horseback riding and horse-

Accommodations which suit the incomes of all classes are available, from the swankiest hotels to the modest overnight cabins.

The road to the summit of Cadillac Mountain is an outstanding piece of engineering. The grade is so moderate as to require little effort on the part of the motor. It is one of the most remarkable scenic highways of the world and the view from the summit is superb. (ht. 1528 ft.) On a clear day the White Mountains of New Hampshire, to the west, Mount Katahdin, to the north, and the neighboring summits of Mount Desert, and the rugged coastline, may all be seen.

Connected with the town road system, and leading into and through the National Park, is an excellent system of roads for use of horses, some fifty miles in extent. Within the limits of the Park there are over one hundred fifty miles of trails and foot paths reaching every mountain summit and transversing every valley.

SEAL HARBOR is on the southern side of the island. Rocky picturesque headlands overlook the harbor that boasts of a much used sand beach. Nestling among the trees on the hillsides are summer homes like feudal castles commanding the surrounding territory, the summer residences of many of the leaders in American life.

NORTHEAST HARBOR is one of the safest harbors along the Maine coast and claims the largest amateur fleet. No doubt this is largely due to its location on the central coastal area of what the earlier navigators called "The Great Harbor" of Mount Desert, meaning that portion of the bay which is protected from the ocean swells by the outlying islands. At present it seems to be the Mecca for young people interested in sailing and other wholesome out door activities.

SOUTHWEST HARBOR is the oldest of the island resorts. The town was laid out by Governor Bernard in 1762. It had the first church, the first summer hotel, the first telegraph office and the first steamboat. It was the first to admit automobiles and the first to have summer visitors remain all winter.

While the attractions and the activities in these several Mount Desert Region resorts vary all have hotels, spacious private residences and modest cottages; country and shore clubs provide swimming, tennis and golf; community centers encourage dramatic and musical entertainments; moving picture theaters have premiere showings; churches provide a religious life and villages with shops and people cater to the needs of the summer colonies.

WINTER HARBOR, or GRINDSTONE NECK, as it is more familiarly called, is at the head of a magnificent bay on the easterly shore of Frenchman's Bay entered through an archipelago of beautiful islands crowned with verdure. No finer or safer harbor for boating can be found.

PETIT MANAN to the eastward has an unique combination of ocean, lakes and woods on a peninsula stretching ten miles out into the ocean with 2500 miles of woodland and open spaces, canoeing and sailing, good anchorage and a natural bathing pool of some eight or ten acres with a hard sand bottom. Farther along shore are MILBRIDGE, JONESPORT, MACHIAS BAY where was fought the first naval engagement of the Revolutionary War called "the Lexington of the Sea."

EASTPORT—Most eastern city in the United States. First settled in 1780. Captured by the British in 1814 and held for three years, it still has earthworks and old powder magazine and other mementos of their occupation. Scene of Fenian Raid. Has highest rise and fall of tides in the United States and finest summer climate on Atlantic seaboard, according to U. S. Weather Bureau experts. Center of sardine and other fisheries. Harbor was intended for concentration point of American fleet when World War closed. From crest of the Battery or Kendalls Head may be seen one of the finest panoramas on Maine coast. Largest whirlpool in Western Hemisphere appears at certain times of tide just off its north-east shore, near Canadian Deer Island.

You have probably heard of the Quoddy Project at Eastport conceived by the late Dexter P. Cooper, famous engineer, to harness the ebb and flow of the tides, approximately a twenty-eight foot depth, in Passamaquoddy Bay to generate electrical power. This is undoubtedly the most highly publicized as well as the greatest controversial public works project undertaken by the present Government, because there is no similar project anywhere in the world. In the Exhibition building at Quoddy Village, Eastport, is a working model of this project showing how the plans now being considered will actually work if completed, and it is well worth the time to visit Eastport to study the model and view the work already done, including the construction of a beautiful model village of more than a hundred homes and long sea dams.

Dennysville is the gateway to almost virgin fishing waters. The Dennys River has a salmon pool in which Atlantic sea salmon, like those caught in the rivers of New Brunswick, may be taken with rod and line. The Dennys River Salmon Club keeps the pools cleared of brush and other obstructions and the members welcome visiting anglers.

PERRY has a stone marker showing it is half way between the equator and the North Pole. An interesting Indian village is nearby.

Cutler, Red Beach, Brook's Bluff, Robbinston, Calais, the St. Croix River are in the neighborhood of Campobello Island the summer home of President Roosevelt.

Grand Lake is one of the four bodies of water that were the original home of the land locked salmon. That lake and Grand Lake Stream are names that are heard wherever sportsmen gather to relate their tales of fishing prowess. Curiously enough, Big Lake, into which Grand Lake Stream empties, is famous for its small-mouthed black bass fishing.

Not far away is Meddybemps Lake, also famous for its black bass fishing, which was a favorite fishing waters of Joe Jefferson and Grover Cleveland.

There are hundreds of lakes and ponds which may be reached only by canoe or hydroplane that are almost virgin waters, and countless streams abound in square tail trout.

SEBAGO AND LONG LAKE REGIONS which embrace Windham, Raymond, North and East Sebago, Douglas Hill, South Casco, Naples, Bridgton and Harrison is one of the most beautiful water-sheds in New England, a region that attracts the sportsman and vacationist, the artist, author and poet; and a Mecca for thousands of automobile tourists from early April, when the ice first leaves the numerous lakes, until ice again forms over their surface. Fishing in the Spring, motoring, boating, bathing and general recreations in the Summer, and hunting in the Fall.

In this natural playground there are scores of lakes varying in size from Sebago Lake with its 80 square miles of surface which, in connection with the other waterways, form a great thoroughfare for a number of counties, to lakes of but two and three square miles. Nearly all of these lakes are connected with one another by small streams, which in themselves are one of the region's most picturesque assets.

It is in this section that the boys' and girls' camp idea had its inception and first successful organization. Now there are nearly fifty such camps in this vicinity and about 4,000 boys and girls spend their vacations here.

NORTH WINDHAM, RAYMOND AND SOUTH CASCO on the shores of Sebago Lake, about half an hour's run from Portland, are typical Maine villages poetic in a setting of ancient elms—quiet, restful and attractive to the summer visitor seeking vacation joys. Located along the beginning of the Theodore Roosevelt International Highway forming the route from Portland to the White Mountains they offer excellent accommodations for the tourists and plenty of good wholesome outdoor summer sport.

In Raymond is located one of the State's fish hatcheries where thousands of trout and salmon from the egg stage to fish of legal size may be studied on the trays in the hatchery house and in the rearing pools. In the village are several places where reasonable and satisfactory board may be had, with opportunity for swimming, canoeing on Jordan River, sailing on Sebago Lake and fishing for salmon and bass throughout the summer. Nearby are several lakes and ponds and many places where brook and stream fishing may be enjoyed. There is ample opportunity for dancing, horseback riding, and golf on nearby courses.

Naples, Raymond and South Casco are near the head of Songo River, famous in song and story by the poet Longfellow and by Nathaniel Hawthorne whose boyhood home is in the town limits of South Casco but the people vote in Raymond. Canoeing on the Songo River is one of the leading diversions of the summer visitor. On the Raymond Cape road the old Manning Mansion is associated with Hawthorne, a nephew of Richard Manning, and its granite steps, hand hammered foot scrapers, beautiful doorways, hand made window glass imported from Belgium are of great interest to lovers of antiques. At the outlet of Thomas Pond a flat rock is pointed out where Hawthorne did much of his boyhood fishing.

This entire section attracts those who enjoy a restful vacation in pleasant surroundings with vistas of lakes, streams, mountains and the beauty of sunsets and yet with plenty of summer diversion and activity as desired.

NAPLES is a popular resort for a summer's outing with every facility for enjoying fishing, camping, boating and pure mountain air. For the bass fisherman, no better sport can be found than in the region of which Naples is the center; the nearby ponds and lakes are stocked every year with salmon and red-spot trout.

CASCO, between Naples and Poland Spring, is bordered by five great ponds or lakes, each a favorite spot with vacationists, fishing enthusiasts, and autoists. Winter sports are becoming more popular each returning season and attract many devotees of that new outdoor activity.

BRIDGTON-ON-THE-LAKES AND HARRISON at the head of Long Lake and bordering Highland Lake are famous centers for vacationists. This region offers charming scenery with over a dozen beautiful lakes within its borders, and picturesque streams and rapids are numerous. Each body of water has its special charm of varying shores, miniature islands and wonderful views of the White Mountain range in the background. Canoeing and bathing are sports much enjoyed, and the bass fishing is excellent. Bridgton was one of the first towns to realize the ever increasing interest in winter sports. Situated in the center of the Western Maine Winter Sports Area, the government foresaw the great possibilities on Pleasant Mountain. Seventy-five men were put to work for a four months project cutting trails, clearing slopes, building roads and parking facilities, constructing cabins, ski-tow, ski-jump, and making one of the most complete ski and winter developments in New England. Bridgton is where the winter sport enthusiast will find New England hospitality at its best. Excellent accommodations may be secured at several of the seasonal and all-year hotels.

FRYEBURG Beautiful, Picturesque Old Maine Town

Has retained the typical atmosphere of a farming community in spite of the thousands of summer visitors who come to camp along its streams and beside its many ponds.

Located in the Saco River valley, 50 miles from Portland, among the foothills of the White Mountains.

Six boys' and girls' camps, accommodating several hundred boys and girls, two fine hotels, numerous old colonial houses open for tourists and many public camps and cottages on the ponds make it easy for visitors to find the kind of accommodation they desire.

Fryeburg offers much to the vacationists: brook trout fishing in the streams, pickerel, bass and white perch fishing in the many ponds; safe, clean, sandy beaches for bathing; interesting mountain trails for the hiker and good deer hunting for the hunter.

Plan your winter vacation here. Trails for the expert skier, open slopes for beginners. Skitow—Toboggan Chute—Skating Rink—statesman, taught at Fryeburg Academy, eking out his modest salary of $350 a year by copying deeds for the county registry. Longfellow's first poem, written at the age of thirteen, had for its theme "Lovewell's Fight," a sanguinary battle in which thirty-three white men engaged one hundred Indians upon the shore of the pond in Fryeburg which bears the name of the white leader, Lovewell. A branch office of the Maine Publicity Bureau is located in the central square on the main street.

CENTER LOVELL AND LOVELL, quiet country villages, nestled in the foothills of the White Mountains, with beautiful lake Kezar, a flawless gem in a perfect setting, over nine miles long, well stocked with salmon and small mouthed bass, summer home of many famous people as well as outstanding sporting camps makes this one of Maine's most inviting vacation spots. The majestic peaks of the Presidential Range in all their beauty of form and color afford an ever changing view of scenic splendor. From the village you can see thirty-nine peaks.

LEWISTON, Maine's second largest city, is in the heart of the Androscoggin river valley amid beautiful hills and streams and the center of a flourishing textile industry. It is the gateway to fishing and orcharding country. Its scenic feature is its Lewiston Falls of the Androscoggin river in plain view from the bridge that connects the cities of Auburn and Lewiston.

Bates College at Lewiston is one of the leading co-educational colleges in New England, famed for its champion international debating teams.

Lewiston is a distributing center by motor to Winthrop, Augusta, the Belgrade Lakes and points north, east, and through Lisbon Falls to Brunswick, Bath and coastal points and north to the Rangeley Lakes, and the Oxford County section of the White Mountains.

AUBURN, just across the river, is a city of fine homes and handsome, elm-shaded streets and with extensive shoe manufacturing.

OXFORD COUNTY, which perhaps, geographically, should include the town of Poland, in which Poland Spring and Summit Spring are located, has long been known as one of the scenic regions in New England. The "Oxford Hills" is a by-word of comparison in thousands of homes throughout the length and breadth of the country, and the magnet that draws hundreds of southern New England and New York people to Maine every summer.

CANTON, on the shores of Anasagunticook, is in southern Oxford County and presents many of its characteristics of hills and valleys, lakes and streams.

NORTH TURNER, SOUTH PARIS, PARIS HILL AND NORWAY are enterprising communities of scenic attractions and historic interest. One will soon be infatuated with the marvelous old homes that preserve their colonial architecture. About a mile away from Paris is the famous Mount Mica where valuable tourmalines have been mined. Norway, from whence came Mellie Dunham, Maine's best known fiddler, is situated at the outlet to beautiful Lake Penesseewassee, with its fine bass fishing, swimming, boating and other summer pleasures. It is on a direct route to the White Mountains, is centrally located for many side trips to Maine's most interesting points. The Norway country club offers the golfer, one of the finest courses in Maine with club house facilities. Norway offers you that fine old fashioned, New England hospitality, "around the fireside" in its modern hotels and camps. The old Squires farm, the scene of C. A. Stephens' stories of home life, is on a picturesque ridge in Norway.

BETHEL is said by many to be one of the prettiest villages in New England, and anyone who has driven up Broad Street on Bethel Hill in mid-summer, will not question the statement. The Sunday and Bear rivers are well-known among the fishermen around Bethel, and they are easily accessible by good roads. Broad Street leads up to Paradise Hill, so-called because it is a long, hard climb to reach the top and the view is a fitting climax.

The new Evans Notch highway was opened for travel in the summer of 1937. It has been built from Gilead, just west of Bethel, to North Chatham, Chatham and Stow and takes you through virgin country offering incomparable river and mountain scenery.

POLAND SPRING, south of Oxford County and east of the Sebago Lake region and yet a gateway to both is one of the best known resorts in the world. Its numerous attractions, and the beauty of its grounds, its baths—among the finest in America—its remarkable golf course, its tennis courts, its facilities for boating, bathing and fishing, are familiar to everyone. No one has truly seen Maine without visiting Poland Spring and quaffing a draught of the superb spring water from the spring itself.

It may be of historical interest to some to learn that the Poland Spring House is located on the old homestead estate of Wentworth Ricker. In 1794 Jabez Ricker, with his four sons and six daughters, arrived and settled in a

RELIEF FROM HAY FEVER

Maine is rapidly becoming known as a mecca for those suffering from hay fever.

Broadly speaking, places in the forested regions offer great relief and in many cases entire immunity is had, particularly in northern Oxford County and in the Rangeley region and the wooded country around Moosehead Lake. Probably anywhere up in the "Big Woods," region of Maine where grasses and pollen bearing weeds are not found can be confidently recommended.

Along the coast where the growth is principally coniferous, Monhegan Island, Newagen, Squirrel Island, Mount Desert Island, Petit Manan and Eastport are recommended.

lons a minute, the waters ebb and flow with the phases of the moon, increasing to sixty gallons a minute on the full moon.

WILTON, the home of the Bass Shoes and with a beautiful lake bordered by towering mountains with Mount Blue in the distance, is a delightful scenic and vacation center.

WELD, surrounded by mountains, Mount Blue in particular, invites the vacationist to a delightful sojourn in its small inns, overnight camps or in a cottage on the shore of Lake Webb, affording excellent trout fishing.

Don't fail to drive to the top of Center Hill for a magnificent view of surrounding country of lakes and mountains. A splendid highway leads to the summit where there is a picnic ground with fireplaces and tables.

FARMINGTON, birthplace of Lillian Nordica, opera singer, is a typical Maine town. Clearwater Pond is nearby covering a thousand acres, and girdled with forests, shadowing cool waters in which togue are said to attain a weight of fifteen pounds. Varnum Pond is another nearby well known salmon waters.

RANGELEY LAKES REGION—One of Maine's most famous chain of inland waters is the Rangeley Lakes, popular as resorts because of their accessibility, through Rumford, Wilson's Mills via New Hampshire, Turner, Farmington, Eustis and other gateways. The Rangeley Lakes, with their curious Indian names, are ve in number and are connected by narrow waterways. Eager fishermen go there in spring, and in summer vacation seekers descend upon the country of Oquossoc and Rangeley, Mooselookmeguntic, Upper and Lower Richardson, Aziscoos (Sawyer), Parmachenee, Cupsuptic, Quimby, Dodge, Loon and Kennebago.

They have an altitude of 1,500 feet above sea level and cover an area of about 80 square miles, the center of a wonderful lake and forest country, abounding in some of the finest fishing that America affords as well as good hunting. There is trolling and fly fishing in the lakes and fly fishing in Kennebago and Cupsuptic Streams and in the five mile Rapid River running from Middle Dam to Sunday Cove. A new highway opened in 1937 from

MILLS
LISBON FALLS, MAINE

Wilson's Mills to Oquossoc opens up virgin fishing waters and a splendid hunting country. It is the new gateway of direct motor travel from the Upper White Mountain Region into Northwestern Maine.

Where formerly this entire region knew only the flannel woods shirt and heavy clothing worn by men, we now find the light summer gowns and sport clothes of summer vacation resort society. In addition to its fine hotels you may also enjoy the romance of living in a log cabin, but you have the best of beds, open fires, bath rooms and verandas.

In no other lake region in the world are found such large, square-tailed red-spot trout. Salmon introduced some years ago have now reached a large size.

Haines Landing on Mooselookmeguntic Lake, is called the hub of the Rangeley Region. Water routes, wood trails and automobile roads lead to all parts of the great network of lakes, streams and forests. Nearby is Kennebago Stream, a famous trout-spawning ground, and fly fishing only is permitted. Near the head of Cupsuptic Lake is Pleasant Island. Aziscoos and Parmachenee Lakes are wild and beautiful sheets of water.

STRATTON, MAINE

Bald Mountain, on the south from Haines Landing, rises to a height of 1,000 feet. The "Big Pool" as it is called at Upper Dam, is considered one of the most famous fishing spots in the world. Then through Upper Richardson Lake to Lower Richardson Lake where the waters unite in the flood that goes tearing through Middle Dam, with fine pools below the dam, a side trip to B Pond, and after forming "Pond in River."

THE ARNOLD TRAIL—The line of march taken by the troops of Benedict Arnold on their way to capture the city of Quebec extends north from the Rangeley country through Stratton, Eustis and Chain of Ponds to Woburn and Megantic across the border with side roads enroute to Round Mountain Lake, Tim Pond, Jim Pond and other well known fishing waters.

AUGUSTA, Maine's Capital City

*invites you for a vacation 'neath
the shadow of her Capitol Dome*

High in the rolling hills at the head-tide of magnificent Kennebec River, in the heart of a vast lake region, lies AUGUSTA, a beautiful little city rich in historical lore, bustling with industry and offering the vacationist ample opportunity for recreation.

With the famous Belgrade Chain of Lakes to the North, on the west the several Winthrop lakes with their fascinating Indian names, and over to the east the lakes, China, Damariscotta, Georges, Three Mile and many smaller ones, there is no limit to the opportunities for swimming, fishing, boating and other sports.

As the natural MOTOR CENTER OF MAINE, Augusta is within a few hours' ride to Bar Harbor, Penobscot Bay and River, Boothbay Region, Casco Bay and other coastal resorts. Or the Rangeleys, Sebago and Moosehead Lake and the Mt. Katahdin Region.

Excellent hotels, fine tourist homes and restaurants, sound banking institutions, beautiful churches and public buildings, 18-hole country club and 9-hole public golf club; fine retail shops and wholesalers will induce you to stay in Augusta. But, close by on the lakes or in adjacent communities are many fine overnight camps, or attractive cottages to rent by the week or season. Many Boys' and Girls' Camps are located on nearby lakes.

VISIT: Maine's Capitol of famous Bulfinch architecture, with its Hall of Flags—the State Museum with its exhibit of Maine animals and birds and tanks of live fish—Beautiful Capitol Park containing species of over 200 native trees, shrubs, ferns and foreign growths—Blaine Mansion, home of Maine's Chief Executive and sheltering the Blaine Study and many historical relics—Veterans Administration Home (a city within itself)—Kennebec Court House, (over 100 years old)—WRDO Broadcasting Station—Lithgow Library—Blaine Memorial, where rest the remains of Maine's greatest statesman—Fort Western, 1754, now containing one of the finest collections of historical museum pieces—Polo Field—Island Park—4-runway airport 1/2 mile from business center.

MR. AND MRS. J. E. HERSOM

MARANACOOK, MONMOUTH, WINTHROP, READFIELD—In Central Maine are the Kennebec and Belgrade chains of lakes. Between Lakes Maranacook and Annabessacook, lies the pretty country town of Winthrop. Few Maine towns are so completely surrounded by fine large lakes as Winthrop. Kennebec chain comprises Maranacook, Cobbosseecontee, Torsey and Pleasant Lakes and others that outlet into the Kennebec River. Lake Maranacook has for years been building up a reputation for good bass and trout fishing, with ample accommodations at Maranacook. Lake Cobbosseecontee, over 9 miles long, is the largest of the Kennebec Chain, a natural bass lake and has perhaps the greatest variety of fishing to be found. The Woolworth family which has a summer home on the shores of the lake have been very generous in cooperating in placing thousands of chinook and landlocked salmon, square tail and rainbow trout in the lake.

AUGUSTA, the capital city, has attractions in itself close by the many lakes of the Kennebec section. Fort Western on the east bank of the Kennebec River in Augusta has been restored and is a museum of early days when Maine was making history, and Arnold made his march to Quebec. Maine's State House is one of the most beautiful in the country. The corner stone was laid in 1829. It is built of Maine Hallowell granite and the graceful tower was designed by Charles Bullfinch. The female figure that surmounts the dome was designed by W. Clark Noble of Gardiner, Maine. A fish and game museum on the ground floor has mounted specimens of game birds, deer, bear and other animals.

CHINA LAKE, one of the best bass fishing waters in Maine, is reached from Augusta or Waterville over State highways. It is the water supply for the City of Waterville so there are no hotels of size but excellent accommodations are offered the visitors at cabins, housekeeping cottages, tourist homes and farms.

LIBERTY, a quiet, restful and attractive Maine village on Route 3, Augusta to Belfast. The main highway skirts St. Georges Lake, spring fed, and rarely a day when fly fishing may not be enjoyed.

HARRY E. TOZIER, Proprietor OAKLAND, MAINE

THE CITY OF WATERVILLE is a delightful elm-shaded city of business activity, the seat of Colby College, and a gateway to the Belgrade Lakes region and northern and eastern central Maine. It is on the direct route for motorists travelling via Jackman to Quebec, to the Moosehead Country, the big woods and to Bangor. It is a convenient stopping place for travellers who enjoy a day or two of fishing with motoring trips to lakes and the comforts of a hotel at night.

THE BELGRADE LAKES Region embracing Belgrade Lakes Village, North Belgrade, Rome, Mount Vernon, Vienna, Smithfield and Oakland, has long been famous among anglers who consider the small-mouth black bass the supreme fighter of all fish. The angler who demands action will find a rushing leaping type of fighting game fish who hits his bait, fly or spinner with a swirling rush and is never subdued until landed. Fly fishing for black bass begins the first of June and continues into and through July and later comes on again to hold through the middle of September.

There are seven large lakes: Great, Long, Messalonskee, North, East, Ellis and McGrath Lakes with numerous smaller lakes and streams such as Watson Pond, Beaver and Whittier Streams. All the lakes are connected by streams and many beautiful canoe trips may be enjoyed by going from one lake to another.

During the past three years much attention has been given to stocking these lakes. Almost a million chinook salmon and nearly the same number of trout have been put into the Belgrade chain and the excellent trout fishing of last spring (1938) has won many new anglers to this favored region.

As soon as the ice goes out, fishing for salmon starts. The Belgrade Lakes Region also offers good square-tail trout fishing. White perch and pickerel are also abundant. Careful and periodical planting of different fish in large quantities has made the Belgrade waters among the best for all-around fishing.

The Belgrade Lakes Region is far from isolated. Within it are many towns and two large cities, any of which afford entertainment and shopping facilities which are unsurpassed.

Maine Invites You

In the past three or four years winter sports have been coming to the front, and now in this region and surrounding territory you may enjoy skiing, snowshoeing, ice boating, tobogganing, ice fishing and skating.

In Waterville a ski tow and slide has been built at Mountain Farm a short distance from the center of the city.

There are thirteen boys' and girls' summer camps in the Belgrade Region besides the many adult camps, farms, hotels and inns.

Rome at the northern end of Great and Long Lakes, and containing Watson Pond, is in the upper Belgrade Lakes section on the main highway from Augusta to Farmington. It is an inviting countryside of rolling hills, lakes and streams, with beautiful views from its many summits and particularly attractive to those seeking quietness and rest.

Oakland is a gateway to the greater part of the Belgrade Lakes region also reached through Belgrade Village. Mount Vernon is on the western border.

LAKEWOOD, just a short distance from Skowhegan, is a summer colony which centers around a modern theatre where a company of Broadway stars presents a series of Broadway stage successes throughout the summer season. An excellent hard-surfaced highway stretches north from Lakewood through Bingham with its famous Wyman Dam and side trip to Pleasant Ridge with it. Carry Pond, Rowe Pond and other desirable fishing waters and vacationing territory amid restful and inspirational scenery. The main highway continues on to Quebec over the so-called Jackman highway through Caratunk, the gateway to Pierce Pond, and The Forks, named because of the confluence of the waters of the Dead River which have flowed down from the hills and lakes of Franklin County to join those of the Kennebec, which have come from Moosehead Lake. The Forks, Troutdale on Lake Moxie, Indian Pond reached via Tarratine, Lake Parlin and Jackman sections are fishing and hunting centers of renown. The lakes have an abundance of trout, land-locked salmon and togue. There are partridge, woodcock, deer and many bear.

Maine in History

So many persons come to Maine with the idea that Maine's history is only an offshoot of that of Massachusetts that it is a pleasure to call attention to the fact that Maine's history is not only distinguished, but distinctive. Much of our state is historic ground and wherever one journeys one may find interesting reminders of Maine's long past and of the many sons and daughters who have made Maine famous as the mother of a remarkable number of men and women of successful achievement in many fields.

It is possible to enumerate here only a few of the many places where memorials or commemorative tablets recall events of historic interest. At Saint Croix Island, now called Dochet Island, near Calais, the first attempt at European settlement in New England was made by the French Voyageurs DeMonts and Champlain in 1604-05. The first English colonization venture in New England was that of the Popham Colony in 1607, and there, a year later, at the mouth of the Kennebec river, Maine's long and illustrious maritime history began with the launching of the Virginia, first sailing craft built by Europeans on American soil. There are other "American Firsts" in Maine history. On Allen's Island at the mouth of the Saint George's River a stone cross marks the spot where, in 1605, a religious service was held by Captain George Waymouth and his company. More significant in world affairs, was Waymouth's act in claiming this territory for England, "The earliest known claim of Right of Possession by Englishmen on New England soil." Many of Maine's islands are as historic as they are beautiful; two of the largest, Monhegan and Mount Desert, play an especially important part in the history of the early exploratory period in America and there is much about both in early narratives of that period, such as those of John Smith and Champlain. As a frontier state, Maine suffered so much in the long period of the Indian Wars that it is interesting to recall that Mount Desert was, in 1613, the scene of the first recorded clash of arms between the French and English, when the Englishman, Captain Argall, destroyed the mission Saint Sauveur, newly established by the French priest, Pierre Biard. Another, although much later, significant episode in the long struggle between France and England for the possession of a continent took place on the banks of the Penobscot, near Ed-dington, when in 1759, Governor Pownal made the first formal claim to the English ownership of the lands between the Penobscot and the Saint Croix, the much disputed "Eastern Lands." In Revolutionary history Maine played an early part, as at Machias, when the capture of the Margaretta was one of the earliest acts of naval warfare. Probably the many readers of Arundel by Kenneth Roberts will find it interesting to follow Arnold's trail through Maine on his expedition to Quebec in 1775, a trail now marked by a series of commemorative tablets.

Maine has always been an outpost state and still standing are a number of forts which have, at one time or another, helped hold the New England frontier. If one enters the state at Kittery one may see Fort McClary, built about 1812 on the site of a much earlier fort (1690) and restored and garrisoned again at the time of the War between the States. At the other end of the long trail of the Atlantic Highway and U. S. Route One in Northern Aroostook County, Fort Kent, one of two blockhouses erected in 1839 stands as a reminder of the bloodless Aroostook War, a war that never happened.

At York is the McIntire Garrison House, one of the few structures remaining from the period when all southern Maine was the field of Indian depredations. At Pemaquid is a fort built by the state as a memorial on the site of four former forts, the earliest of which was built in 1630 as a defense against pirates. At Davis Island, at the entrance to Wiscasset Harbor is Fort Edgecomb, an interesting octagonal structure built in 1808-09.

Fort Edgecomb is of wood and so are the two forts still standing on the Kennebec, Fort Western at Augusta, and Fort Halifax at Winslow, both built in 1754. Fort Popham (1860) at Popham, Fort Preble (1808) at Portland Harbor and Fort Knox (1846) at Prospect across the river from Bucksport are stone forts, of extremely interesting design. Near Fort Knox is a notable example of modern bridge construction, the Waldo-Hancock bridge, mentioned here because it is an interesting contrast to the covered bridges of yesterday, many of which are still left in Maine, although if one wishes to cross them one must leave the main highways.

Probably the most interesting bridge in Maine is the Sewall Bridge at York, built in 1757, the oldest pile draw bridge in America which is still in use. York, "first chartered city in the New World" has many historic sites but it also has as an historical museum a unique structure, the old Gaol, built in 1653, and the oldest extant public building in New England. The Gaol is of stone and is also the jail (now the town library) at lovely Paris Hill, one of the most charming villages in a state where, from almost any starting point, one can visit villages where the houses are of arresting beauty and charm. There has always been plenty of wood in Maine and so wood is the medium which Maine builders used for their beautiful houses, as well as for their clipper ships, but there are notable examples of brick houses, such as the Black House at Ellsworth. Also of wood are many of the old churches which add to the architectural beauty of Maine towns. These churches whose steeples, often hung with Paul Revere bells, point so many Maine hilltops, are a story in themselves, but there are several of special interest, such as Saint Patrick's Church at Newcastle, dedicated by Father, afterwards Bishop Cheverus, in 1808, one of the oldest Roman Catholic churches in New England; the old German Meeting House at Waldoboro with its even older cemetery, and the church at Alna, built about 1789, said to be the finest existing specimen of the earliest form of New England meeting-house, a form, by the way, which does not include a steeple. The interiors of these churches are even more interesting than the exteriors.

Most of the old houses of Maine are private homes but occasionally in one of the towns where there are a number of notable examples of early Georgian architecture, as in Wiscasset, there is an "open house day" when visitors may enjoy the interiors as well as the exteriors of the houses.

Although one may not visit all of the houses one might like to see in Maine there is an increasing number of houses of historic, architectural or associative interest which are open to the public. Among these are the Blaine House, at Augusta, former home of U. S. Senator James G. Blaine, "the plumed Knight," and now the official residence of the Governor of the state; the Thomas Ruggles House, at Columbia Falls, noted for its exceptionally fine interior hand carving; Woodlawn, the Black home, at Ellsworth and also at Ellsworth the public library; the birthplace of Madame Lillian Nordica at Farmington; the Baxter Museum at Gorham; the L. M. D. Sweat House at Portland, with which there is connected an art museum; the Wadsworth-Longfellow House at Portland and the Longfellow birthplace, in another part of the town; the home and studio of the great marine painter, Winslow Homer, at Prout's Neck; the Sarah Orne Jewett House at South Berwick; the Tate House (1755) at Stroudwater, a suburb of Portland; the Deacon Increase Robinson House at Sumner; and Montpelier, at Thomaston, the restored mansion of General Henry Knox, Washington's Chief of Staff, the first Secretary of War of the United States 1785 to 1795.

Many of these houses contain museum collections, and there are a number of other museums in the state. Especially interesting to the student of the history of eastern Maine, is the museum at the Cranberry Isles, near Mount Desert Island, which contains a room for each of the three periods of that region's history, French, English and Colonial.

This is but a sketchy outline of some of the many places of historic interest in the State of Maine. The student of early history may delve further into the past by a visit to the Maine Historical Society which is housed in a building adjoining the Wadsworth-Longfellow home in Portland in the heart of the retail district of Congress Street and which is owned by that Society.

WHY PAY BIG CITY RENTS

One year's city rent will buy a home in Maine. Living expenses too are reasonable. The freedom of out-doors means everything. Every type and size of home, endless variety of location.

Ask the Maine Publicity Bureau

WHAT DOES A VACATION IN MAINE COST

In considering this question, one may start with board at a farmhouse where the children ride the hayrack, feed the hens and pigs and drive the cows home from pasture. Mother can crochet or knit that gown or sweater and dad and the boys and girls can drop a hook and worm in brooks and streams or use a boat or canoe on the lake nearby. Satisfactory farm board can be had at $12.00 to $18.00 a week.

Camp life in the lake and woods region is where you live in a log camp or bungalow, most of them having a fireplace in the living room, one, two or three bedrooms and a bathroom. Each family or party uses this as their exclusive living quarters and get their meals in the main dining room, living room and office camp. Rates range from $25.00 to $35.00 a week, a few at a slightly lower rate and a few at $40.00 to $45.00, according to the type of accommodations, variety of menu and attractions offered. There are also a few such places along the seashore.

Modest hotels along the seashore and beside interior lakes offer accommodations ranging in price from $18.00 to $35.00 a week and from that up to the deluxe hotels from $35.00 to $80.00 a week.

Almost any type of accommodations may be had according to what your vacation budget admits.

A study of the advertisements herein will develop many places for your consideration. You might also be interested to hire a cottage or camp and do your own house-keeping. We have a special folder describing and illustrating many such places. May we send it to you?

JACKMAN is a friendly town with shops, hotels, restaurants and tourists' accommodations, service stations and garages, picture theatre, bank, library, four churches (Catholic, Congregational, Episcopalian and Nazarene), telephones, telegraph and a spirited Board of Trade whose chief aim is to see that you have a royal good time.

At Jackman an excellent highway extends to Rockwood on the shores of Moosehead Lake and across the lake are far famed Kineo and Kineo Mountain. A fine new highway extends south from Rockwood to Greenville crossing the West and East Outlets of Moosehead which flow into the Kennebec river, thence through Squaw Mountain Township on the southern shore of Moosehead Lake.

For trout, salmon and togue (lake trout) fishing, the Jackman Region has long been famous. Salmon thrive in these cool northern waters and weigh from two to seven pounds and over. Moose River waters are celebrated for the fighting qualities of these "landlocked" salmon. Some smaller ponds are well stocked with this sporty fish. It is the last frontier in this great unspoiled region on the historic "Indian Trail" highway leading to Quebec.

Maine's Scenic Playground

"Where the Gates of Heaven are Open"

The Moosehead Lake region provides a vacationland of thousands of square miles of woods, mountains, streams and lakes—still a primitive country. Good roads now make this playground accessible; boats ply the Lake, trails and waterways thread the forests.

You can live luxuriously at a big modern Hotel or Inn, with golf on a wonderful course overlooking the Lake and with fishing and other sports no end; or enjoy life in real log cabin style at one of the many finely equipped Sporting Camps on the wooded shores and tributaries of Moosehead. These Camps provide all the conveniences and comforts of the city hotel with excellent service and food, and are easily reached by auto or boat.

Housekeeping cabins, cottages and camps may be rented by the day, week or season.

Privately operated camping and tenting grounds are located beside the Lake a few miles out of Greenville. Whether you choose a hotel, inn, sporting camp, bungalow, cabin or tent—or go camping or cruising—the Moosehead Lake Region will give you hours of solid vacation enjoyment.

Experienced anglers swear that Moosehead Lake tops all places in the East for trout, togue and salmon fishing—both as to size, fight and flavor. The reason? Protection (all tributaries closed except Moose River and Roach River), propagation, and the cool, clear water—the natural habitat of these clean, discriminating feeders. The fishing fun tunes in with the passing of the ice—usually the early part of May, and it's sweet, swing-music for the fisherman till shooting time in October. Bait fishing and trolling is in order until the water temperature rises, the last of May, then wonderful fly fishing until the middle of July, and again in September. But with a guide one can catch big trout and salmon in Moosehead—and get his limit daily throughout the season. Moosehead trout usually run from two to seven pounds; salmon from three to ten; and togue (Lake trout) from five to twenty.

MOOSEHEAD LAKE—Everywhere from the water's edge extends the forests that provide the setting for Moosehead Lake. Located in the western central part of the State, 1,023 feet above sea level surrounded by splendid spruce and fir balsam forests, it has become universally recognized as a health resort and famous for its unexcelled trout, togue and salmon fishing in the lake, and in Moose River, the outlet of Brassua Lake.

LILY BAY is almost a lake in itself and separated from Moosehead by Sugar Island. This bay has for years been a fishing center of high repute.

WEST OUTLET on the shore of Moosehead Lake opposite Kineo and reached by motor launch from Rockwood is a famous camp colony, one of the largest in the state. There is excellent trout, salmon and togue fishing in the lake. West Outlet Stream offers much of interest to the stream fisherman and where the East Outlet several miles below flows from Moosehead Lake into the Kennebec is one of the best trout pools in this section.

DOVER-FOXCROFT is the shire town of Piscataquis County, on the Moosehead Trail, halfway between Bangor and Moosehead Lake. An enterprising community with woolen mills, attractive homes, public gardens, elm shaded streets. Beautiful SEBEC LAKE lies within the town, a body of water 13 miles long, one of the original homes of the landlocked salmon. It affords, not only good salmon fishing, but also bass and perch fishing. The Town Club, a woman's organization, maintains a publicity bureau.

DEXTER on the Moosehead route from Newport Junction to Greenville is a convenient stopping off place for a meal or overnight. Lake Wassookeag close to the town offers bass, perch and trout fishing. Cottages and overnight cabins available by the night or season. The Chamber of Commerce maintains an information bureau.

TO LIST the fishing waters in the north Maine woods country would mean an endless catalogue. There are numerous lakes and streams, dozens of fine basins famous for fishing, and farther north in western and northern Aroostook County are waters that have come rapidly into prominence. All these waters offer exceptionally fine sport and the salmon and trout taken from these waters are unsurpassed for size and gaminess.

Pleasant Lake and Mattawamkeag Lake near Island Falls offer remarkably good fishing for salmon in the spring months and from June first throughout the summer the bass fishing is unsurpassed with large pickerel and white perch in abundance. There are splendid waters reached from Patten and among the hundreds of northern lakes in Maine, none offer finer salmon fishing than do Big Fish Lake reached from Ashland with ten other nearby smaller bodies of water, Red River Chain of twenty lakes on three water sheds, St. Froid Lake reached from Quimby, Square Lake reached from Guerette and Eagle Lake on the main line, and many others in the wilderness section of Northern Aroostook County and nowhere do the fish run larger. One of the big advantages of these cold north-Maine waters is, that there is good fly-fishing practically throughout the summer.

Live Longer in Maine and Join the Century Club

Bridgton-on-the-Lakes, Maine,
March 20, 1939.

Mr. Harrie B. Coe,
Manager, Maine Publicity Bureau,
Portland, Maine.

My Dear Mr. Coe:

I am a former Bostonian, now retired and living in Maine where I would rather live than any place in the world, though I was not born here. I have observed the splendid publicity work you are doing for Maine, but you have missed one "Best bet," and that is the longevity of Maine People. I was amazed to learn of the vast number of men and women, between the ages of seventy-five and one hundred years who belong to the Three Quarter Century Club, which holds yearly conventions in the State.

I conceived the idea of starting a Century Club in Maine, wholly sentimental of course, for residents at least one hundred years of age. I made this suggestion to the Maine Public Health Association, which sponsors the Three Quarter Century Club. They told me to go ahead and start the club and they would sponsor it. So far we have enrolled twenty-four members, with two more to join the club in May, and many more approaching the eligible age of one hundred years.

When you talk with a man or woman one hundred years of age, Mr. Coe, you are mighty liable to learn something worth while, and one of the greatest joys of my life is going about the State, presenting the golden badge of membership in the Century Club to the grand old men and women of the State of Maine.

So far as I know Maine is again living up to its motto Dirigo by being the first State to start a Century Club.

Why not tell the world about it?

Very truly yours,

WALTER A. HAWKINS

Believe It Or Not

We Journeyed to VIENNA,
to PARIS and to WALES,
To NORWAY and to DEN-
MARK, by auto and by rails.
To EGYPT and to SMYRNA,
to CHINA and PERU,
To SWEDEN and to POLAND,
explored them through and through. We traveled on to NAPLES, to LISBON and to ROME, To DRESDEN and to ATHENS and there felt quite at home. We stopped awhile at BELFAST, at CALAIS and at YORK, At ARGYLE and at LIMERICK to hear the natives talk.
We hied away to MILO, PALERMO and MADRID, To COREA and to GILEAD, by big green forests hid. To CORINTH and to BRISTOL, to STOCKHOLM and to LEEDS,
To CARTHAGE and to CORNISH, all famed for noble deeds. Then back by way of MEXICO, in sunshine and in rain,
And throughout this entire journey—

STATE of MAINE!
