Dear Vacationist:

As the Chief Executive of Vacationland it gives me pleasure to say -- MAINE INVITES YOU -- and to assure you that a cordial welcome awaits you throughout this treasure-house of verdant hills, sparkling waters and recreational joys.

The State of Maine -- Vacationland -- is not content to limit its offering to health, beauty, climate and recreation. All of these are of no avail if the superlative pleasures of a sojourn here are nullified by motoring hazards or accidents. Consequently every effort is being made to safeguard your travel here and to make it accident-free. We will be satisfied with our hospitality only when our visitors have had a SAFE VACATION as well as a wonderful one.

I hope you will spend your vacation in Maine this year. If so, I am sure you will drive and walk the "Golden Rule" way. Your reward will be a safe and happy return to your fireside.

Sincerely,

Lewis O. Barrows

PORTLAND, MAINE

Welcome Summer Visitor:

We are greatly pleased that you are considering Maine for your vacation—a state that offers every opportunity for enjoyment at a cost surprisingly reasonable. You will find much information in this booklet.

Perhaps we can be of greatest assistance by finding the place to spend your vacation here in Maine at the price you want to pay. Is it a luxurious hotel, a moderate priced hotel, a camp in the big woods, a cottage by the sea or inland lake, a quiet farmhouse, an overnight camp or private house that is your preference—tell us which it is that we may make further suggestions of interest.

Our tourist visitors constantly express surprise that so satisfactory a vacation can be enjoyed in Maine at such a moderate cost. It costs very little more than to stay at home—you can make it cost what you wish—depending on whether you want to keep "on the go" or just laze around and enjoy doing so.

If you plan to come by motor, you will want road information—if by train, boat, bus or air we will suggest the best service from your city, although your local transportation agents are always glad to aid in this respect. If you have any questions to ask, please do not hesitate to write us. We have nothing to sell—our service is FREE—its whole purpose is to help you to have the most enjoyment possible from your Maine vacation.

Won't you please use enclosed card to tell us what further information we can send you and call at our new headquarters building junction St. John and Danforth Streets when you come to Portland.

After you have perfected your plans, we would greatly appreciate a note from you telling us if you have found our service helpful that we may know if we are doing our job well, and frank opinions from people like yourself are most helpful in future planning.

Cordially yours,

Manager

"Maine's going to give you the time of your life"

—and I'll be seeing you there a little later. I wouldn't miss my "annual" in that most glorious vacation state for all the gold in the treasury.

YORK HARBOR, YORK BEACH, YORK—The traveler who enters Maine through its southern-most point, crosses the Piscataqua River into the old town of Kittery. Settled in 1622, incorporated in 1651, it was the first town to receive a charter from Massachusetts Bay Colony. Here was built the Ranger, first ship to fly the Stars and Stripes, commanded by John Paul Jones and manned by men from along the Piscataqua shores.

At Kittery Point stands the mansion of Sir William Pepperell, who led the New England troops in 1747 in the siege of Louisburg, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

The United States Navy Yard at Kittery, an extensive modern government plant, is well worth a visit. Among the famous ships built here and equipped was the Kearsarge, designed for the express purpose of seeking out the Alabama, and launched in ninety days from the laying of keel. The Russo-Japanese treaty of peace was signed here.

The eastbound traveler first enters York Village, with its colonial church, court house and museum built in 1653 for a jail. The Sewall Bridge, first pile drawbridge in America, although restored in 1933 still appears much as it did when sixty-four Minute Men marched across it April 21, 1775 on their way from Maine to Boston to fight the British in the Revolutionary War.

York was the first chartered city in America, founded by Sir Ferdinando Gorges in 1641, called Gorgeanna. In 1652 the Massachusetts Bay Colony diplomatically took over the Province of Maine and changed the name to York.

A mile below York Village is York Harbor, one of the high class summer resorts of New England. It is essentially a village of substantial and beautiful summer homes which are largely owned by their occupants, with a proper proportion of attractive rented cottages, first-class hotels and boarding-houses all constituting one of the distinctive and wealthy summer colonies of New England. At this point York River empties into the sea, and forms a convenient and safe port of entry for yachts, large and small, with coastwise ocean views; yet in a few minutes' time, by canoe up river or by motor drives, one may be among the quiet woods and fields of the country.

*Y*ORK BEACH—Maine's most charming Vacation Spot! Clean, cool, comfortable. Here you can live exciting, thrilling days on Maine's most marvelous beach; breathe the invigorating, sea-spiced air; bathe in the briny surf; or bask on broad, shining sands—absolutely safe for children.

YORK BEACH has an unparalleled variety of sports; intriguing golf courses, overlooking the sea; fast tennis courts, shuffleboards and games, adjoining the beach; completely equipped Children's Playgrounds; abounding opportunities for sailing, motor-boating and water sports; deep sea fishing, including the sporty Tuna, 500 to 700 pounds; picnicking and shore dinners; hiking; mountain climbing, and motoring along the sea and countryside.

YORK BEACH is a land of enchantment—of romance and high adventure. Here are miles of white glistening sands; rocky, surf-beaten headlands; smiling, pine-clad hills; trails along the shore or through evergreen forests; and a mountain from which ships can be sighted fifty miles at sea.

YORK BEACH with its three century historical background will appeal also to the lover of things Colonial. Antique shops of quaintness and charm are located beside the smart shops, restaurants and hotels. You'll enjoy York Beach for its clean sports and wholesome surroundings and the right kind of people who summer here. Prices are extremely moderate.

At the Harbor, the Short Sands Beach, protected by two high headlands, affords ideal sea bathing. York Country Club, located a mile up river, is an old established and one of the most attractive eighteen-hole courses in New England—well bunkered and every variety of hazard. Ten tennis courts are maintained.

Along the shore, following the state highway east, and distant four miles is York Beach, another large summer resort combining hotel and cottage life. Upon the rocky headlands, or bluffs, one of them tipped by "The Nubble" and its lighthouse, the unbroken Atlantic beats ceaselessly. Between York Harbor and York Beach stretching for a distance of nearly two miles is Long Beach, one of the broadest, smoothest and firmest stretches of sand, delightful for both bathing and driving and lined with attractive cottages and hotels.

OGUNQUIT—Bordering Ogunquit beach, sand dunes of picturesque character, with sea grasses, pushing their blades up through the surface, constantly shift from one formation to another. A two mile long tide water river parallels the beach extending northward for three miles.

So many artists make their summer homes in Ogunquit that it is referred to as "The Artists' Colony." Exhibitions are held at the art center and in individual studios throughout the summer of the work of artists who enjoy a national reputation. Ogunquit offers to the summer tourist one of nature's beauty spots where he may meet America's best people. Bathing, sailing, fishing, motoring, golf and tennis are the principal pastimes in this summer resort of many hotels, some of which have few superiors in palatial grandeur.

Offshore is to be had that new northern salt water sport, trolling with heavy rods and reels for giant tunas running from two hundred to fifteen hundred pounds of swift and hard fighting game fish.

Bald Head Cliff and Pulpit Rock are outstanding scenic features of this entire stretch of shoreline, interesting to artists, photographers, the student of rock formations and those of us who like to take it easy and watch the surging sea pound itself against this rocky headland, breaking into spray at times a hundred feet or more high.

crescents of sun warmed sand, the perfume of the pine clad hills, the surf swept promontories, or the tang of the invigorating salt sea breezes.

Here you can enjoy bathing on the clean white beaches; golf on the ideal 18 hole Webhannet course, scene of the "Maine Open Amateur"; sailing; fishing; picnicking with fresh dug clams and live lobsters, cooked in steaming hot sea weed. Kennebunk Beach is where Kenneth Roberts, author of the historical novels, "Arundel," "The Lively Lady," and "Rabble in Arms" lives.

KENNEBUNKPORT—With its scores of Old Colonial homes midst the elm shaded streets, silvery beaches and rocky headlands, superb modern hotels, summer cottages, situated on the beautiful Kennebunk river dotted with smart motor yachts, brilliant colored canoes and tiny fishing craft enthralls hundreds of vacationists year after year.

Author Booth Tarkington who has for long years made Kennebunkport his summer home, contributed the following:

"Kennebunkport grows more famous year by year as more novelists write of it and more painters paint it. Anciently Arundel, a 'little Yankee fishing Village,' it long ago became a ship-building town where deep-sea magnates lived and fast clipper ships were built. After that came the hotels and summer colony on 'the Point'; for the place has more to offer than its picturesqueness.

"Vacation at Kennebunkport of course means good fun, golf, tennis, dancing, sailing, fishing, surf-bathing, antiquing, and romantic views of sea and coast; but, what's more important it means good health and rested nerves.

"Kennebunkport has not only the sea and the great crescent of white beach and brown rocks, it has a lovely river that winds inland between wooded banks, and, near the harbor mouth, gives the canoeist or sailor of light craft, glimpses of such exquisite gardens as Margaret Deland's and that of the painter, Abbott Graves."

Another writer resident pictures the village:

"Away from the tumbled coast and the rocky woodland of pine and juniper, is the village itself. There are the little streets of clean, white, green-shuttered houses

RELIEF FROM HAY FEVER

Maine is rapidly becoming known as a mecca for those suffering from hay fever.

Broadly speaking, places in the forested regions offer great relief and in many cases entire immunity is had, particularly in northern Oxford County and in the Rangeley region and the wooded country around Moosehead Lake. Probably anywhere up in the "Big Woods," region of Maine where grasses and pollen bearing weeds are not found can be confidently recommended.

Along the coast where the growth is principally coniferous, Monhegan Island, Newagen, Squirrel Island, Mount Desert Island, Petit Manan and Eastport are recommended.

as old as the great wine-glass elms that drip shadows down upon the roofs; there is the white church with columned portico and Christopher Wren steeple, and for the landward borders, there are the stone-walled pastures that early summer powders cheerily with buttercups and daisies."

CAPE PORPOISE, close at hand, is a bold, rugged place where the ocean provides the chief charm. Here are hotels famous for tempting dinners of lobster and other sea foods. It is said that Captain John Smith gave this cape its name on his voyage of discovery along the Maine Coast in 1614.

GOOSE ROCKS, BEACHWOOD AND FORTUNES ROCKS, different names for a beautiful stretch of bathing beach and the engaging combination of seashore and country, are points of interest which vacationers delight to visit because of their scenic attractions.

BIDDEFORD POOL has a substantial cottage and hotel development. Well known authors and artists have their summer homes at the Pool.

Eight miles inland from the Pool are the thriving manufacturing and residential cities of Biddeford and Saco connected by bridges across the Saco River, home of the Pepperell Company, manufacturers of "Lady Pepperell" fine grade of cotton cloth. About two million yards of cloth leave the mills each week.

BIDDEFORD is a point of divergence to the inland town of Sanford, the largest town in the State and the Goodall Mills where Palm Beach Cloth is made. At the Sanford mills is probably made the fabric with which your automobile is upholstered as they are the largest producers in this country. A visit to this pretty, prosperous, progressive town and its woolen mills is always of interest.

BAY VIEW is a splendid white sand beach a little over two miles from Old Orchard Beach.

WARM SEA BATHING—Those long stretches of white sea sand beaches from Kittery to Portland are so shelving that when the tide is out a long stretch of white shelving sea sand is exposed which draws the rays of the sun and becomes thoroughly warmed. As the tidal waters flow slowly back over this sand, the water is heated to a temperature which makes it comfortable for sea bathing and ideal for sun bathing.

THE U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Weather Bureau Annual Meteorological Summary for 1935 reads as follows:

HEALTH

"MAINE HAS THE MOST HEALTHFUL CLIMATE IN THE UNITED STATES AND EQUALS ANY IN THE WORLD, NOT ONLY IN THE SUMMER BUT ALSO, CONTRARY TO POPULAR BELIEF, IN THE WINTER.

"Sunshine averages close to 60 per cent for the year and monthly averages vary little during the changes of seasons. Frequently the winter has more sunshiny days than the summer.

"IT IS A FACT THAT SOUTHERN MAINE HAS MORE ACTUAL HOURS OF SUNSHINE DURING THE SUMMER MONTHS OF JUNE, JULY, AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER THAN THE FAMOUS WINTER RESORTS OF FLORIDA, GEORGIA, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA HAVE DURING THE WINTER MONTHS OF NOVEMBER, DECEMBER, JANUARY AND FEBRUARY.

"Vitamin 'D' has been recognized as being very necessary to invalids or convalescent patients. Maine's sunshine and large number of crystal clear days assure residents of large quantities of vitamin "D" and ultraviolet rays to insure good health.

"The accessibility of iodine contained in sea food provides an excellent aid in the cure and prevention of goiter.

SPORTS

"All summer sports are enjoyed in Maine and the sea and lake bathing is enjoyed by thousands every summer. The temperature of the ocean is about 50 degrees in June, 58 in July, 60 in August, 62 in September and 55 in October. As a tonic and health giving factor the cold water is unexcelled. In the lakes the water is usually 70 degrees or above by the last of June.

"The 10,000 lakes and ponds in the state provide ample room for fresh water fishing. And of course the ocean fishing is always accessible. The giant Maine Tuna fish ranging from 250 to 1000 pounds are found a short distance from the shore in the Gulf of Maine.

"Thousands of yachts cruise the Maine coast each summer.

"Skating and snow sports are enjoyed and facilities for their promotion are second to none in the country. The hills of the southern Maine counties are ideal for skiing and tobogganing, and the snow is usually of the correct consistency for these sports.

CLIMATE

"Fog is perhaps the only unpleasant factor of summer. Occasionally there are sieges of two to three days of dense fog. However, the average loss of sunlight due to fog is only two hours in June, three in July and four in August. Twenty miles from the coast the averages are half of those given above. Dense fog during the night frequently burns off during the morning.

"While the ground is usually covered with snow from December 15 to March 15, real blizzards are rare. In fifty-six years there have been only six; one in December, four in January and one in February.

"Severe storms like the hurricanes of the Gulf of Mexico, the tornadoes of the middle west and the blizzards of the northwest are nearly unknown. Evidence of only one tropical hurricane passing in full strength over Maine during the past sixty years is contained in the records.

"Six to twelve rain-falls a year are heavy, usually with northeast winds. Moisture is ample, serious floods unknown and droughts are rare. Except near the mountains thunderstorms are mild and few in number.

"Hot and cold spells are neither of long duration nor hard to bear. 90 degrees is reached on an average of three times a year and zero two to five times a year. Rapid changes in temperature are infrequent. Strong winds are rare, the velocity never having exceeded 48 miles, since records started."

OLD ORCHARD BEACH—The splendid sweep of firm, white sands that comprises Old Orchard's wonderful beach is famed the world over. It has been the take-off of several trans-atlantic airplane flights. It stretches for miles eastward to Pine Point and westward to Bay View, and at low tide its broad expanse, curving along the crescent shore, offers one of the most princely playgrounds over which the blue sky bends. Add to this an exhilarating surf, the security which encompasses the bathers at their daily sport, and the cool sea breeze that nearly always blows, and it is not hard to understand the popularity of this old-established Maine resort. It has its steel pier, dance pavilions, shops, skating rinks, movie theaters, roller coaster and other amusement features.

Life at Old Orchard Beach is just what you yourself want it to be; every form of amusement is available.

The air is clear, invigorating; laden with the odor of balsam and the vivifying tang of the sea. Ocean Park, Ferry Beach and Camp Ellis are all descriptive names and are reached from Old Orchard Beach.

PINE POINT, SCARBORO, SCARBORO BEACH AND HIGGINS BEACH just north of Old Orchard Beach and part of the Maine Coast from Kittery to Cape Elizabeth are attractive surf bathing beaches.

PROUTS NECK—Because this neck of land stretches out into the ocean and is nearly surrounded by water, it always has a cool sea breeze. A country club provides for golf, tennis, and social affairs. There is a good bathing beach, with pleasant water, and entire freedom from undertow. Three rivers in the near neighborhood are delightful for canoeing and there is good fishing off the high rocks. There are many cottages and excellent hotels.

Salt Water Fishing

Salt water fishing for sport along the Maine Coast is coming into its own.

For excitement and hard work the Maine tuna or "horse mackerel" as the commercial fishermen call them—takes the lead and by sportsmen is considered superior to the better known because better advertised tuna fishing of Southern California and Block Island—off Rhode Island, because those in Maine waters run very much larger.

The big fish have already shown up in the Gulf of Maine. Their appearance, nearly two months in advance of schedule, promises a banner year for tuna fishing.

We have been told that a tuna of 200 pounds taken by rod and reel off the California coast is a prize winner. Commercial fishermen of the Maine coast bring in catches ranging from 200 to 1500 pounds, the majority running from 400 to 700 pounds. A tuna weighing a little over 800 pounds was taken on rod and reel in the outer waters at Casco Bay a few years ago. We have the names of skippers who will furnish a boat, rods and reels for tuna fishing.

Growing interest in this sport is indicated by a launching which took place at the ship yard of the Portland Yacht Service, Inc., South Portland, Monday, March 22nd, of a 40 foot cruiser the "Sanpaylin" built for Charles Shipman Payson, the well known sportsman of New York City and Portland (where he was born), fitted with every modern facility for tuna fishing and the first of this type ever built in Maine. Mr. Payson, owner of the speedy streamlined express, Saga, a frequent visitor here last season came over from New York for the launching and will use his new boat for fishing in Maine waters this summer and in Florida next winter.

This is probably the start of a new feature of boat building for which Maine has long been famous, for those interested in tuna fishing in the Gulf of Maine.

If you are not equipped for tuna fishing, a lot of fun may be had fly fishing for mackerel and pollock which offer good sport on a light fly rod.

A lot of people get a lot of fun fishing off the rocks along our coast for cunners, cod, haddock and what have you and then cooking them over a campfire.

Deep sea fishing has been popular for years and many visitors do not consider their vacation outing complete without one or more such trips.

Nearly all shore resorts have skippers who specialize in taking out such fishing parties. They furnish lines, hooks and bait and if their craft is large enough will prepare a delicious fish chowder for the noonday meal or run ashore if a campfire meal seems more attractive.

Striped sea bass were caught near the mouths of the rivers last year, though only in small numbers so we do not feel warranted in suggesting this too strongly but it is a possibility and it is a fact that more of them have been seen the past two years than for some time.

We have had requests for information on surf casting. It is only fair to state that Maine does not offer satisfactory surf casting such as is found along shore at places further south. A special folder on Salt Water Fishing giving details of tackle and other information will be sent on request.

THE LOVELY RIVERS AND LAKES OF MAINE

Oh, the lovely rivers and the lakes of Maine!
I am charmed with their names, as my song will explain.
Aboriginal muses inspire my strain,
While I sing the bright rivers and lakes of Maine—
From Cupsuptic to Cheputmaticook,
From Sagadahoc to Pohenegamook,
 'gamook, 'gamook
 Pohenegamook,
From Sagadahoc to Pohenegamook.

For light serenading the "Blue Moselle,"
"Bonnie Doon" and "Sweet Avon" may do very well;
But the rivers of Maine, in their wild solitudes
Bring a thunderous sound from the depth of the woods;
The Aroostook and Chemmenticook,
The Ambajeus and Chinquassabamtook,
 'bamtook, 'bamtook,
 Chinquassabamtook, ...
The Ambajeus and Chinquassabamtook.

Behold! how they sparkle and flash in the sun!
The Mattawamkeag and the Munsungun;
The kingly Penobscot, the wild Woolastock,
Kennebec, Kennebago and Sebasticook;
The pretty Presumpscot and Gay Tulanbic;
The Ess'quilsagook and little Schoodic,
 Schoodic, Schoodic,
 The little Schoodic,
The Ess'quilsagook and little Schoodic.

Yes, yes, I prefer the bright rivers of Maine
To the Rhine, or the Rhone, or the Soane, or the Seine.
These may do for the cockney; but give me some nook
On the Ammonoosuc or the Wytopitlook,
Or the Umsaskis or the Ripogenus,
The Ripogenus or the Piscataquis
 'acquis, 'acquis,
 The Piscataquis,
The Ripogenus or the Piscataquis.

"Away down South, the Cherokee
Has named his rivers the Tallahassee,
The Chattahoochee and the Ocmulgee,
The Congaree and the Ohoopce;
But what are they, or the Frenchy Detroit,
To the Passadumkeag or the Wassataquoit,
 'taquoit, 'taquoit,
 the Wassataquoit,
To the Passadumkeag or the Wassataquoit.

Then turn to the beautiful lakes of Maine,
(To the Sage of Auburn be given the strain,
The statesman whose genius or bright fancy makes
The earth's highest glories to shine in its lakes):
What lakes out of Maine can we place in the book
With the Matagamon and the Pangokomook,
 'omook, 'omook,
 The Pangokomook,
With the Matagamon and the Pangokomook.

Lake Lemon or Como, what care I for them,
When Maine has the Moosehead and Pongokwahem
And sweet as the dew in the violet's kiss
Wallagosquegamook and Telosimos;
And when I can share in the fisherman's bunk
On the Moosetocmaguntic or Mol'chunkamunk,
 'amunk, 'amunk,
 Or Mol'chunkamunk.

And Maine has the Eagle Lakes, Cheappawgan,
And the little Sepic and the little Squapan
The spreading Sebago, the Caucomgomoc,
The Millinocket and Motesinloc,
Caribou and the fair Ambajemackamus,
Oquossoc and rare Welokenebacook,
 'acook, 'acook,
 Welokenebacook,
Oquossoc and rare Welokenebacook,

And there are the Pokeshine, Pat'quongomis;
And there is the pretty Coscomogonosis,
Romantic Umbagog, and Pemadumcook,
The Pemadumcook and the old Chesuncook,
Sebois and Moosetuc; and take care not to miss
The Umbazookskus or the Sysladobsis,
 'dobsis, 'dobsis,
 The Sysladobsis,
The Umbazookskus or the Sysladobsis.

Oh! give me the rivers and lakes of Maine,
In her mountains, or forests, or fields of grain;
In the depth of the shade or the blaze of the sun,
The lakes of Schoodic and the Bascahegun,
And the dear Waubasoos and the clear Oquossuc,
 The Cobosecontic and Millentikuk,
 'tikuk, 'tikuk,
 The Millentikuk,
The Cobosecontic and Millentikuk.

GEORGE B. WALLIS.

NOTE—The above poem introducing many of the fascinating names of Indian origin which designate many of the lakes and rivers of Maine was first published in the Boston Transcript April 3, 1882 and reprinted February 1901 in The Maine Central Monthly, a journal of travel, published by the Maine Central Railroad and edited by Harrie B. Coe.

We have attempted, in-so-far as research has made possible, to designate the location of these various waters on the map of Maine by numerical designation thinking it might be of interest. The Indian and modern spelling may be somewhat confused but our endeavor has been to follow as closely as possible the Indian terminology.

We have had so many requests the past few years for information where a copy of the poem might be obtained that it seemed of interest to publish it in "Maine Invites You."

Portland

By ELMER BACHELDER

Blessed with more days of sunshine than any other Atlantic coast city north of Hatteras. Shares Maine's world-over fame for its clear air and ultra-violet rays.

Birthplace of the poet Longfellow—"That beautiful city that is seated by the sea."

Crowning Casco's crest—loveliest and most picturesque island studded bay in all the world.

Finest harbor on the Atlantic coast, easy and safe of access, never ice bound. Deep lane for largest ships, straight in from open sea to piers. Only Atlantic port linked with the great West by a direct transcontinental railway—the Canadian National. Four other converging lines. Only Atlantic coastal city entirely encircled by rails to facilitate the speedy and economic handling of freight.

Excelled only by Boston and Gloucester in its importance in the fishing industry.

A charming residential and commercial city, and yet its many and varied smaller industries render it second manufacturing center in Maine. Relatively more individual home telephones than in any other New England city.

First practical plant for the scientific conservation of food in hermetically sealed tins (in other words, canned corn, etc.)—precursor of a world-wide canning industry by John Winslow Jones, pioneer packer.

Birthplace of three great movements that have encircled the earth: Prohibition, inspired by General Neal Dow; Young People's Christian Endeavor which originated in the parlor of the pastor of Williston Church; first annual Knights Templar impressive Christmas observance, conceived and initiated by Stephen Berry, now religiously observed in every Masonic Temple throughout the world.

First Radio Church in America.

Birthplace of Cyrus Herman Kotschmar Curtis, the publisher; home of Robert Peary who planted the American flag at the North Pole; scene of James G. Blaine's youthful career on the editorial staff of the old Portland

PINE TREES AND BAKED BEANS

WHY DO THEY GO TOGETHER?

Baked beans just naturally hit the camper's appetite because originally they were a pioneer's food.

HERE in Portland, Maine, we bake beans the pioneer way. There really is no other way — if you want baked beans with the rich tenderness that makes New England beans famous.

Once you taste the extreme relish of B & M Brick-Oven Baked Beans — you'll know why we bake beans as we do.

It does take hours longer. It takes some old-fashioned notions, too, such as open bean pots and brick ovens. But there are some things you don't want modern and one of them is baked beans. Try B & M Baked Beans tonight with B & M Brown Bread.

BURNHAM & MORRILL CO., Portland, Maine

Daily Advertiser; birthplace and lifetime home of the immortal "Tom" Reed, Congressman-parliamentarian, and of William Pitt Fessenden, Abraham Lincoln's Secretary of War.

Settled by George Cleve in 1632. Twice burned and ruthlessly destroyed in cruel Indian Wars. Bombarded and burned by British ships under Mowatt in 1775. Ravaged by fire in 1866. Four times risen from its ashes, it has bloomed into one of America's fairest cities.

Gateway to the great Maine vacationland through which more than a million tourists pass each season. Most excellent hotels, restful sea trips through Casco Bay, half an hour by motor to Sebago Lake, Longfellow's "sinuous Songo," land-locked salmon and trout. Two hours to the heart of the White Mountains, and less than half a day to the depths of the great Maine woods.

Should you tire of these diversions, you may listen to the renowned Kotzschmar organ, first municipal organ in America, gift of Cyrus H. K. Curtis—one of the largest and the finest in the world.

Pray, tarry a while with us, and enjoy our "Down East" hospitality on your way to the charming realms of rest, health and delights which lie beyond in the grand old State of Maine.

The Portland Society of Natural History has maintained a creditable collection and exhibits for nearly 100 years. The Museum is located at 22 Elm Street, Portland, open to the public every afternoon 2:00 to 5:00. The recently acquired Dr. Brock collection of birds is of great interest.

ISLES OF CASCO BAY, generally reputed to number as many as the days of the year, but more conservatively estimated at 122, have no limit to the opportunities that they include for holiday sport and vacation enjoyment. Some have smooth beaches, admirable for bathing, many wild and rock cliffs, most of which are heavily wooded. Local steamer lines maintain regular schedules between Portland, the island landings and mainland communities on the bay shore.

Of the islands, Peaks is the nearest and is really a suburb of Portland. Long Island is the largest of the islands. The Diamonds, Chebeague, Cliff, Orrs, Bailey, with rugged shores and bathing beaches, offer every opportunity for summer diversion.

FREEPORT has an unique natural phenomenon in its "Desert of Maine." Fifty years ago a fertile field land, there are acres and acres of shifting vari-colored sands which are fast obliterating grasses, bushes, trees and even home and farm buildings. At one point it stretches away for nearly 75 acres and the total area now included in the desert is more than 200 acres. Containing many of the elements of Sahara, the Gobi and the Midwestern Painted and other deserts, each year sees an increase in the acreage, so that students who have visited and studied it are wondering where it will stop; what will be the eventual fate of the surrounding landscape.

The Desert of Maine yearly attracts thousands of visitors to its vast acreage of vari-colored sand. It is truly one of Maine's most wonderful places of interest.

papers separating Maine from Massachusetts were signed here.

BRUNSWICK, a few miles beyond the Foresides and Freeport, is the seat of Bowdoin College, and beneath its academic elms have sauntered in their student days the novelist Hawthorne, the poet Longfellow, and Franklin Pierce, afterward to be President of the United States. Here Elijah Kellogg laid the scenes of "Whispering Pine" series, inimitable stories of student life of long ago. Here also was written "Uncle Tom's Cabin," its author, Harriet Beecher Stowe, being the wife of a professor of Bowdoin. Maine Hall, the first of the college dormitories, was built 100 years ago. Among Bowdoin men who have roomed in Maine Hall are United States Senators William Pitt Fessenden, William P. Frye, President Franklin Pierce, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Elijah Kellogg, General O. O. Howard, General Joshua L. Chamberlain and Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller.

Just south of Brunswick lies Prince's Point, the Harpells, Bailey and Orr's Islands, spruce-crowned and well equipped with hotels and cottages.

BATH is a rarely beautiful old New England City with streets shaded by great elms; its residential section has many fine old mansions, the homes of the many famous shipbuilders and master mariners who made Bath's fame as a shipping city world-wide. It was on the banks of the Kennebec River, a short distance below Bath, that in 1607, thirteen years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, the Popham colony built the first vessel constructed by civilized hands in the new world.

In the ship yards of the Bath Iron Works the Ranger, the yacht which will represent the United States in the America's Cup Race, is being built this year.

SEBASCO is divergent from Route One at Bath and possesses rare combinations of vacation charms, a private bathing beach, rocky points, close by a large fresh water lake suitable for boating and canoeing; trails through the firs, spruces and pines and a mountain from the summit of which may be seen at night a half score of lighthouses sending out their warning but cheerful beams.

The golf course is one which attracts for its natural beauty as well as its sporty layout.

Sebasco property for several miles is bonded against the pest of mosquitoes, extermination work having been done, following a special survey by the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

WISCASSET on Route One, the Atlantic Highway, was once a prosperous seaport. Gone are the hustle and bustle of sawmills and shipyards, of arriving and departing ships but in their place has come a delightful and beautiful peace. In this era of fast speeding changes it is interesting to drop back awhile to a time when life moved more slowly. In Wiscasset you may, if you wish, recapture something of the feeling of peace and poise we like to think our ancestors possessed. Here you will find the same elm shaded streets and fine old homes that were here in late 1700 and early 1800. Many of these homes are open to visitors on the Annual Open House Day about the middle of August. Modern Inns and tourist camps provide for the traveler even as did the old taverns in their day.

CHRISTMAS COVE, while geographically the southern end of Rutherford Island, is virtually part of the mainland, being connected by a bridge.

Here precipitous cliffs face with bold defiance the Atlantic's broad flood; here, deep and dense, stretch groves of fir and spruce; here a grassy meadow slopes to the verge of a peaceful little bay. This rare variety is indeed the charm of this well favored section of the Maine coast.

SQUIRREL ISLAND is the objective of much vacation travel, as it is the oldest resort along this section of the shore. "Squirrel" is the summer home of many of the members of our college faculties, a famous Maine editor and a large representation of some of the brightest lights in the literary, professional and business world.

SOUTHPORT is one of many beautiful islands on the Maine coast, six miles in length and three miles at its widest part and connected with the mainland by a drawbridge over the Samoset river, a beautiful arm of the sea.

MONHEGAN ISLAND, rising from the sea ten miles off shore, attracts by its sheer picturesqueness and restfulness a loyal summer throng. The whole of Monhegan Island seems to be one immense rock rising to a considerable height out of the sea and yet having a remarkable spruce area in the bowl-like center of the island. For over thirty years artists have been coming to Monhegan, attracted by the wild beauty of the place, many coming year after year and building summer homes. The surf after a storm is wonderful beyond description. The Island was a rendezvous in 1605 for fishing fleets from the Old World. Capt. John Smith made it his base of exploration in 1614.

NEWCASTLE and DAMARISCOTTA are the center of an inviting lake and river section only a few moments' ride from the seashore. The lakes offer excellent fishing for salmon, trout, pickerel, bass and perch and there are good woodcock and partridge covers and it is good coon and fox country. Historically it has its vast deposits of oyster shell heaps along the rivers, the largest kitchen midden in the world and nearby historic Pemaquid.

THE SAMOSET
by-the-Sea
AT ROCKLAND BREAKWATER

ROCKLAND is the metropolis of the Penobscot Bay region. At Rockland Breakwater the summer sojourner beholds constantly an exquisite sea view. Socially the summer life is brilliant and the pastimes are manifold. There are pleasant hotels and inns, adequately equipped to care for those who stop for a night or to sojourn for an extended period.

For the salt water fisherman there is the ocean from which one may take cod, haddock, pollock in quantity and occasionally halibut, tuna and swordfish. There are innumerable lakes and streams nearby for fresh water fishing and boats and guides are available.

To the mountain climber Rockland offers special attractions, as its neighboring hills stand like sentinels a short distance from the city. The Megunticook Range rises abruptly from the ocean in rugged beauty and grandeur. From its summits one views Penobscot Bay to the open Atlantic to the eastward, and a panoramic expanse of forest, lake and stream unequalled to the westward.

For the golfer there are nine hole courses at the Rockland Country Club and SamOset Hotel, both in excellent condition, with natural and artificial hazards.

WALDOBORO was settled in 1748 by German emigrants. An attractive summer town, ten miles from ocean tidal water, with the tang of the sea in the air.

FRIENDSHIP, with its Martin Point, is a colony in all that the name implies, on Muscongus Bay, delightful people, attractive summer homes.

THOMASTON was the home town of General Henry Knox, Washington's chief of artillery, Secretary of War from 1785 to 1795, and founder of the Order of Cincinnati. The new Montpelier, his restored home, attracts many antiquarians and students of colonial history.

CAMDEN, over which the blue Camden Mountains stand like sentinels, is a delightful village. The combination of mountains and lakes and sea makes an impression that is not soon forgotten.

Across Penobscot Bay is Castine, Sargentville, Hericks, Deer Isle, Brooklin and other charming, quiet, coast towns with summer cottages and hotels set amid picturesque surroundings and farther out to sea are the islands of Vinal Haven, North Haven and Isle au Haut.

BELFAST is a city of fine summer living, of beautiful old homes under some of the oldest elms in the State, of comfortable accommodations for the summer visitor, of all the quiet pleasures of the Maine Coast. Shipping days built up the handsome old town for later generations to enjoy. Famous people know the special beauties of the Penobscot Bay Region. Charles Dana Gibson, Ben Ames Williams, Admiral William Veazie Pratt, and many others spend long summers here.

Belfast supports a City Park on the waterfront, trailers are invited to stop and salt water bathing may be enjoyed either in an enclosed pool or in the open surf. Attractive cottages are available, comfortable hotels offer the best of service and many fine places with overnight camps are open for tourists. The country inland from Belfast is picturesque, with beautiful lakes set among hills in farming or wooded regions. The city maintains a fine yacht landing—boats of all sorts are available for excursions on the Bay to Gilkey's Harbor or Camden to watch the yacht races, to historic Castine to view the old Fort and relics of Colonial occupation under four different nations. WINTER HARBOR, or GRINDSTONE NECK, as it is more familiarly called, is at the head of a magnificent bay on the easterly shore of Frenchman's Bay entered through an archipelago of beautiful islands crowned with verdure. No finer or safer harbor for boating can be found and the woods and streams afford excellent sport.

PETIT MANAN has a unique combination of ocean, lakes, woods on a peninsula stretching ten miles out into the ocean with 2500 miles of woodland and open spaces, canoeing and sailing, good anchorage and a natural bathing pool of some eight or ten acres with a hard sand bottom. Those having hay fever will find relief and immunity.

Farther along there are MILLBRIDGE, JONESPORT, MACHIAS BAY where was fought the first naval engagement of the Revolutionary War called "the Lexington of the Sea." Cross Island, Avery's Rock, O'Brien's Brook, the Burnham Tavern now a museum, and colonial mansions, Cutler, Eastport, Quoddy, Red Beach, Brook's Bluff, Robbinston, the St. Croix River are in the neighborhood of Campobello Island the summer home of President Roosevelt. Dennysville is the gateway to almost virgin fishing waters, and the Dennys River has lately come into prominence for its fly fishing for sea salmon through the efforts of the Dennys River Salmon Club whose members are always glad to cooperate with visiting anglers. Neutral or Dochets Island, where the colonists sent out by Henry of Navarre settled in 1604 is in the St. Croix river opposite Calais. Back among the hills are fishing waters in the Grand Lake Stream and Machias river sections that satisfy the most ardent fisherman.

MOUNT DESERT ISLAND

The early history of Mount Desert Island is linked with that long struggle between France and England for supremacy in America. Here in 1613, at the entrance of Somes Sound, when the English ship Treasurer captured the French ship Jonas and destroyed the Jesuit settlement at the foot of Flying Mountain, began that long series of battles ending, nearly 150 years later, when Montcalm fell on the Plains of Abraham and Wolfe's forces captured Quebec.

GROWTH AS A SUMMER RESORT

As a summer resort Mount Desert Island slowly grew from the early days of a few artists and tourists, called "rusticators", lodging in barnlike boarding houses or fishermen's dwellings to the coming of multi-millionaires with their families occupying the best suites in modern hotels or their own palatial residences by the sea. After the pains and thrills of youthful growth, has come a more mature development when Mount Desert Island may safely invite people of discriminating tastes, both those of wealth and those of moderate means, seeking health, recreation and pleasure for themselves and their families and the companionship of like minded persons, to make their vacation homes on this "enchanted isle."

ACADIA NATIONAL PARK

Established in 1919, Acadia National Park comprises not only the Mount Desert Hills but also the beautiful Schoodic Point on the mainland. Its wonderful topography, majesty, wildness and beauty are unsurpassed. Geologists say that the world has no more interesting formations; that the colossal "granitic outburst" of the mountain range is the greatest event in the island's history; that no one can measure its former height nor its unsounded depth.

The Park is preserving the varied indigenous flora; it is a sanctuary for birds and wild animals; here are biological laboratories where scientists study marine life; a branch of the Maine Forest Service studying the trees; an Archeological Museum and the noted Sieur de Monts Spring.

Numerous trails wind through the valleys and ascend to every mountain top. Gateways lead to many miles of excellent roads reserved for horseback riding and horse-drawn vehicles. Five or six hundred miles of motor roads through the park and about the island, including the Ocean Drive along the rocky surf-beaten shores of Schooner and Great Heads; the Mountain Drive over-

Buy a Farm and Transform it into a Summer Home

Countless cliff-dwellers in the canyons of a hundred cities live in hope and most everyone looks forward to sometime owning a home—and then—to owning a summer home.

WHY NOT IN MAINE? One which will be an expression of you and your family, after days and nights and weeks of the fun of planning, changing this room a bit to more fully meet your needs, rearranging that one to give added closet room, to save steps in the kitchen, adding a veranda or to make the veranda a little larger or better spaced for afternoon or evening parties, planning the garden you've always wanted, setting out shrubbery and trees to develop those ideas on landscape arrangement you've had for so long a time.

It's surprising what one can do with an old farm house which has been allowed to go to seed, or changes in family plans have vacated and which may be located along ocean sprayed frontage, on a wind swept hill insuring cool summer breezes, maybe overlooking a lake, or carrying the eye to distant mountain slopes, a place where the air is sweet and fresh, away from the smell of city gasoline and the grime of soft coal or sticky oil smoke, where nights are long restful sleeping hours and days are crowded with activity because the tang of crystal clear air makes one want to be active, and best of all where dad, mother and the children can stretch their lives in the friendly sun.

It's also surprising how often you find a once lovely old home on a site made beautiful with fine old trees which is a real bargain and, while looking almost hopeless, can be built into "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" if you just start to let your imagination run riot and let a friendly architect into the secret so he may advise you. You and he will see how perhaps an unneeded closet may be converted into a bath room, a wing may be added for a commodious guest room and other changes and improvements visualized.

And in years of approaching retirement it may come to be your permanent year-round home.

If you want a place ready made such as an old Colonial home or of Cape Cod type or one made to your order instead of creating the transformation of a Maine farm, there are many opportunities in the attractive land sites available on the seashore or beside a lake or river that may be reasonably purchased, also real bargains in summer and year-round homes that have come onto the market in recent years for various reasons.

Perhaps your interest may be for a hotel, inn, a roadside overnight camp or a camp for boys and girls—such places may be bought at satisfactory terms.

You will find our townspeople ready to welcome you and to help you with your plans, people of standing in the community, with no axe to grind. People of average income and of simple tasks like those of Maine people will be met by a cooperative spirit and a desire to help them fit into the local picture and atmosphere and become a part of interesting community activities where they will enjoy a full, rich, well rounded, healthy life and soon could not be persuaded to go back to city life.

Booth Tarkington has said—"It is easier for a stranger to feel at home in Maine than in almost any other place I know. That is perhaps the reason why so many visitors cease to be visitors and get to think of Maine as home."

The Maine Publicity Bureau, Portland, has several desirable inland and seashore farm or modern places listed as has also the State Department of Agriculture, Augusta, and the Maine Real Estate Association, any or all of whom will gladly assist in finding such a place as you have in mind for rental or ownership and to fit your budget requirements.

U. S. Department of Agriculture Farmer's Bulletin No. 1738 has forty-five plans for houses that may be built new, old houses that may be remodeled, camp style houses, kitchen and other room arrangements and a wealth of detailed information. Copies may be had by writing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

looking Eagle Lake, Jordan and Bubble Ponds; the Sargeant Drive along the fjord of Somes Sound; the Cadillac Drive, a masterpiece of engineering skill and scenic beauty extending to the top of Cadillac Mountain 1527 feet above the sea, make motoring delightful. Another new shore road and causeway at Otter Creek will connect the ocean and mountain routes.

BAR HARBOR, long rated as one of the famous watering places of the world, having a salubrious climate, and scenic beauty, that is incomparable on the North American Continent, and with a unique combination of ocean, lakes, forest and mountains, coupled with hospitality and accommodations which suit the incomes of all classes, makes Bar Harbor a mecca for the discriminating summer visitor.

Beautiful trails cut through this wonderland, made possible by the National Park Service; boat rides that show Bar Harbor's gold coast, and a sky-line that beggars description, mountain climbing, horse-back riding, yachting, golf, tennis, and club life, furnish the visitor with all that a vacation requires.

SEAL HARBOR is on the southern side of the island. Rocky picturesque headlands overlook the harbor that boasts of a much used sand beach. Nestling among the trees on the hillsides are summer cottages; on the hilltop, like a feudal castle, commanding the surrounding territory stands the summer residence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

NORTHEAST HARBOR is one of the safest harbors along the Maine coast and claims the largest amateur fleet. No doubt this is largely due to its location on the central coastal area of what the earlier navigators called "The Great Harbor" of Mount Desert, meaning that portion of the bay which is protected from the ocean swells by the outlying islands. At present it seems to be the Mecca for young people interested in sailing and other wholesome out door activities.

SOUTHWEST HARBOR is the oldest of the island resorts. The town was laid out by Governor Bernard in 1762. It had the first church, the first summer hotel, the first telegraph office and the first steamboat. It was the first to admit automobiles and the first to have summer visitors remain all winter.

While the attractions and the activities in these resorts vary all have hotels, spacious private residences and modest cottages; country and shore clubs provide swimming, tennis and golf; community centers encourage dramatic and musical entertainments; moving picture theaters have premiere showings; churches provide a religious life and villages with shops and people cater to the needs of the summer colonies.

ANCHORS AWEIGH

Herbert Payson, Jr.

For generations Maine has been famous for its sailing masters. In this latter day it is fast coming into its own as a desirable coastal fairway for pleasure sailing, one of the greatest sports in the world.

The Maine Coast is over two thousand miles long and of infinite variety. From any port it is a question of but moments to be out on the broad Atlantic. There are many bays and estuaries with miles of smooth water sailing, coves and secluded spots for quiet anchorage or daily outings and at no place is one far from shelter in case of a blow.

From Kittery Point to Quoddy Head the Maine coast welcomes you whether it is sailing dinghy or schooner yacht, the little putt-putt or the roaring speed boat. There is space enough and beauty and charm for all.

Casco Bay with its many islands starts from Portland and extends twenty miles east. Then come Sheepscott Bay, Boothbay, Muscongus Bay, each with its individual beauty. Try your navigating skill through the Muscle Ridges to Owl's Head off Rockland. Drop anchor in the shadow of the Camden Hills in lovely Camden Harbor. Take a cruise on Penobscot Bay, to Islesboro, North Haven, Vinalhaven and Isle au Haut. Skim the rippling blue water of Eggemoggin Reach into Jericho and Bluehill Bay, and on to Mount Desert Island and Frenchman's Bay with a shore visit to Acadia National Park. Cruise still farther east to Petit Manan, and into Narraguagus Bay, to Jonesport and Englishman's Bay. Then on to Machias and finally to Quoddy Roads, Cobscook Bay and Passamaquoddy, but don't forget the tides.

The twenty four foot tidal ebb and flow at Eastport, in Passamaquoddy Bay is well known, and the story of the gentleman yachtsman who moored his boat in four fathoms of water only to return later and find pigs and cows feeding all around it is not to be laughed at. The pigs and cows are smart "down east" because they have to be pretty spry to climb the banks before the tide catches them, or they will be in for a swim.

The amateur navigator is often glad to see a fisherman bobbing around the ledges apparently much too close for comfort, pulling his lobster traps on a foggy day. You may be very glad to ask your bearings, and will wonder how the fisherman reckons that the elusive bell buoy is dead ahead, about eight minutes, and be somewhat surprised to find it is exactly there, a very welcome sound and sight after a period of doubt. It is always wise to believe the compass, but even if there should be a little damage done by a reef, perhaps, which has decided to poke its jagged head up under the keel, or put an odd twist in a propeller, repairs may be made in the vicinity. There are over a hundred boat shops and repair yards along the coast of Maine where the traditions of the early builders of Maine's ships are carried on.

There are eighteen yacht clubs along the Maine coast where visiting yachtsmen always find a cordial welcome and Saturday afternoons hundreds of little boats are sailing at the various resorts.

The "Pinkey," one of the first coasting vessels, reached its highest development "down east." The "Hampton" boats, originated in Casco Bay, are known the length of the coast. The first "Friendship" sloop was built by Jonah Morse in the town of Friendship. The "Jonesport" model motorboats very popular, were developed in the town of that name. Indeed in every coastal village will be found someone who knows boats and is handy with tools. Everywhere, able boats, surprisingly fast are now used by the native fisherman.

Attractive coastal towns in sheltered bays afford ample opportunity for the purchase of yacht supplies and equipment, gasoline, food supplies, clothing, and other living requirements, connection with the outside world by telephone, telegraph and mail, shore dinner places and the usual moving picture theaters, dances, golf and other shore diversions.

There is always time for a sail, with sunny days, clean sea breezes, cool evenings and star-filled nights. Just an hour, half a day, all day, or an indetermined water trip from port to port will invigorate. Hundreds are turning to the water for rest from the rush of the work-a-day world. It is good for both young and old.

So Remember Maine. The prevailing breeze during the summer months is southerly, the sun is warm, the water blue and the coastline varies from sandy beach to wooded islands and rugged headlands.

JUNE, JULY, AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER ARE CRUISING MONTHS.

SKIPPER AHOY—THIS SUMMER!

Maine's bridle paths are winding ways of endless beauty

"Give me my boots and saddle" and the long winding paths of Maine arched by towering pines, stately poplars and lacy birches—and a companion to echo my appreciation of the pictures each turn and clearing presents. My horseman friends, you have never ridden through wonderland unless you have followed at least one of the innumerable paths of Maine.

Maine Bridle Trails

EARLE DOUCETTE

Tree shaded trails that penetrate into the little traveled sections of the state where life moves at the unhurried pace conducive of a restful and happy vacation await the horseman who comes to Maine this year to travel any of the seventeen different routes that compose Maine's new 1,300 mile network of bridle trails. This new horse kingdom in Maine is a series of roads, trails, and paths where man's equine friend reigns supreme. It traverses the "back country" opening up new vistas of beauty to the horseman or horsewoman who wants to get off the beaten path.

In utilizing the trail system, the horseman can choose the kind of "going" that best suits his moods or inclinations. Some trails follow the marvelous coastline of Maine where each turn in the road reveals new combinations of the beauties of sky, ocean, pines, and shore. Other trails penetrate into the lake country where placid lakes are guarded by friendly, tree-covered mountains. Still others lead the rider into the sylvan silences of the Maine forests to follow picturesque "tote" roads that lead into the quiet havens that are the overnight stopping places. Too, there are trails that traverse the quiet unhurried farm sections of the state where friendly New England farmhouses are utilized as quarters.

Needless to say this system of trails did not materialize over night. Its consummation followed long hours of poring over sectional maps to find roads that had been abandoned and all but forgotten, old trolley line roadbeds, little used back country roads, tote roads used only during the winter by lumbermen.

Crews were sent out along the various trails, cutting brush, removing obstructions, and placing trail markers. These markers are square, orange-painted signs on which appears a horseshoe encircling the number of the trail.

These guides were placed at all intersections and at short intervals along the trails. Providing accommodations was another duty of the trail blazers. Farm houses, inns, and sporting camps at strategic points along the routes capable of accommodating parties of riders and their mounts were carefully selected.

Simultaneously with the establishing of the trail system, enthusiasm for horseback riding in Maine was reflected in the forming of numerous riding clubs throughout this state. These clubs, all of which are affiliated with the Maine Horse Association (an organization having for its objective the furthering of interest in riding) are especially cordial to visiting riders. Those coming into the state with horses find the members of these clubs useful in obtaining accommodations and in helping route out saddle trips. Riding stables or schools in the vicinity of these clubs have mounts for hire for those who wish to enjoy the trails and are reluctant to bring their horses from home.

Among the more prominent of the riding clubs and stables in the state are the following: Caribou Boot and Saddle Club, Caribou; Bangor Boot and Saddle Club, Bangor; Silver Spur Riding Club, Waterville; Kennebec Valley Riding Club, Augusta; Tallwood Riding Club, Winthrop; Androscoggin Boot and Saddle Club, Lewiston-Auburn; Hunnewell Homestead, South Auburn; C. D. Bartlett Riding School, Brunswick; Presumpscott Valley Riding Club, Westbrook; Abenaki Riding Club and Waynflete Riding School, Stroudwater; Bath Riding Club, Bath; Pleasant Hill Riding and Driving Club, Cape Elizabeth; Barta Summer Camps, Casco; Rumford Riding Club, Rumford; Tripp Lake Camps, Poland.

To list even a part of the possible riding trips in the state ranging from a short morning's jaunt to a trip of several weeks' duration would require the better part of a volume. The trail network penetrates into every county in Maine, there being hardly a town of any size in the state from which some part of the system can not be reached.

Leading as riding centers are the cities and towns listed above. From these communities trails radiate in every direction affording every conceivable kind of riding trip.

More definite information will be available for those who wish to use the Maine trails this spring when the Maine Development Commission will issue a booklet containing a trail map, accommodations, stables, and other data. These booklets will be distributed by the Maine Publicity Bureau as well as by the Commission in Augusta.

Information may also be received by writing to Ralph Skinner, Auburn, secretary of the Maine Horse Association who will be glad to suggest trips as well as to make other arrangements for prospective visitors.

WHAT DOES A VACATION IN MAINE COST

In considering this question, one may start with board at a farmhouse where the children ride the hayrack, feed the hens and pigs and drive the cows home from pasture. Mother can crochet or knit that gown or sweater and dad and the boys and girls can drop a hook and worm in brooks and streams or use a boat or canoe on the lake nearby. Satisfactory farm board can be had at $12.00 to $18.00 a week.

Camp life in the lake and woods region is where you live in a log camp or bungalow, most of them having a fireplace in the living room, one, two or three bedrooms and a bathroom. Each family or party uses this as their exclusive living quarters and get their meals in the main dining room, living room and office camp. Rates range from $25.00 to $35.00 a week, a few at a slightly lower rate and a few at $40.00 to $45.00, according to the type of accommodations, variety of menu and attractions offered. There are a few such places along the seashore.

Modest hotels along the seashore and beside interior lakes offer accommodations ranging in price from $18.00 to $35.00 a week and from that up to the deluxe hotels from $35.00 to $80.00 a week.

Almost any type of accommodations may be had according to what your vacation budget admits. We are always pleased to suggest places at the price you want to pay. A study of the advertisements herein will develop many places for your consideration. You might also be interested to hire a cottage or camp and do your own housekeeping. We have a special folder describing and illustrating many such places. May we send it to you?

SEBAGO AND LONG LAKE REGIONS which embrace Windham, Raymond, North and East Sebago, Douglas Hill, South Casco, Naples, Bridgton and Harrison is one of the most beautiful water-sheds in New England, a region that attracts the sportsman and vacationist, the artist, author and poet; and a mecca for thousands of automobile tourists from early April, when the ice first leaves the numerous lakes, until ice again forms over their surface. Fishing in the Spring, motor-ing, boating, bathing and recreations in the Summer, and hunting in the Fall.

In this natural playground there are scores of lakes varying in size from Sebago Lake with its 80 square miles of surface which, in connection with the other waterways, form a great thoroughfare for a number of counties to lakes of but two and three square miles. Nearly all of these lakes are connected with one another by small streams, which in themselves are one of the region's most picturesque assets.

It is in this section that the boys' and girls' camp idea had its inception and first successful organization. Now there are nearly fifty such camps in this vicinity and about 4,000 boys and girls spend their vacations here.

NORTH WINDHAM, RAYMOND AND SOUTH CASCO on the shores of Sebago Lake, about half an hour's run from Portland, are typical Maine villages poetic in a setting of ancient elms—quiet, restful and attractive to the summer visitor seeking vacation joys. They are on the Theodore Roosevelt International Highway from Portland to the White Mountains and offer excellent accommodations for the tourists and plenty of good wholesome outdoor summer sport. On Jordan's River is located one of the State's fish hatcheries.

MAINE GUIDES

A guide is a very satisfactory adjunct to a Maine fishing trip.

While not required by law, (unless you are to camp and kindle fires in the wild land district and do not use one of the camp sites provided by the Forestry Department,) a good guide will add immeasurably to the pleasure and success of a visit to Maine's fishing waters—particularly if the angler is a stranger to the waters to be fished. Your guide knows the location of sand bar and reefs along which to troll and the shallows or deep holes where the fish are most likely to congregate. He knows what lures or flies to use. He is usually a companionable fellow with knowledge of the habitat and habits of the birds and creatures of the wilderness and after all, catching and killing fish is not all there is to fishing. And best of all if he is a good cook—and he usually is—the joy of "dinner out," with the steak and bacon—or a fish if you've caught one—cooked before an open fire, with the coffee boiled just right, the bread toasted to a golden brown, flapjacks spread with maple syrup that just melt in your mouth, then a doughnut, a slab of pie or some fruit to "top off" with, and the warm sun on your back storing up restfulness and renewed energy, while you enjoy a soothing smoke as the guide washes the dishes and packs them away. As Billy Drummond the Canadian poet has said: "What more you want, ma frien?"

If you are staying at a public camp the proprietor will engage your guide and you will find him ready to set up your rod for an hour or two of sunset fishing if you've arrived in the late afternoon or he'll be knocking at your door in the early morning at your pleasure. The real Maine guides do not have "sit down" strikes nor union hours. They do, however, have a fine sense of fairness on the part of their employer.

A guide is equally desirable on a camping or hunting trip for the same general reasons.

Guides' wages are four to seven dollars a day and their board at the home camp or their food if camping in the open. The scale of wages is based on the kind of trip to be taken. For a camping trip they furnish a canoe and cooking utensils. You do the rest and it is well to be guided by their advice in making up the list of foods and paraphernalia. Don't take along non essentials—travel light—but do take those things which are necessary for your comfort even a small pillow, otherwise you'll be unhappy and an unhappy man or woman in the woods is—well, just is—that's all.

And if it is your first trip to Maine don't stock up with a lot of fishing paraphernalia from a large city sporting goods store, which may not know any more than you what the fishes of Maine will "take" or "rise to," for you'd best be guided in your purchases by the proprietors of stores in Maine selling fishing tackle who are probably fishermen themselves and know what to use and what to discard and you'll find them as considerate of your pocketbook as of their own business prosperity.

Public Camps usually carry a selected supply of what's best to use in that particular locality.

The chief game warden of any district will recommend a reliable guide and arrangements for a fishing, hunting, camping or canoeing trip will be made in advance for you by the Maine Publicity Bureau.

NAPLES is a popular resort for a summer's outing with every facility for enjoying fishing, camping, boating and pure mountain air. For the bass fisherman, no better sport can be found than in the region of which Naples is the center; the nearby ponds and lakes are stocked every year with salmon and red spot trout.

CASCO, between Naples and Poland Spring, is bordered by five great ponds or lakes, each a favorite spot with vacationists, fishing enthusiasts, and autoists.

BRIDGTON AND HARRISON at the head of Long Lake and bordering Highland Lake are famous centers for vacationists. This region offers charming scenery with over a dozen beautiful lakes within its borders, and picturesque streams and rapids are numerous. Each body of water has its special charm of varying shores, miniature islands and wonderful views of the White Mountain range in the background. Canoeing and bathing are sports much enjoyed, and the bass fishing is excellent. Winter sports—Skating, skiing, tobogganing and sleigh rides are available and excellent accommodations may be secured at several of the all-year hotels.

FRYEBURG is a delightful village of colonial homes on a plateau that looks across an elm embossed intervalle to the Saco River and the White Mountains and offers much for the summer vacationist. Brook trout fishing in the streams; one can enter a canoe at Swan's Falls, Saco River, at the upper end of the town, and float or drift with the current for fifty miles and still leave the canoe within a half mile of the starting point, so devious is the course of the Saco in this vicinity. Fryeburg is just coming into its own as a center for winter sports activities, with ski and snowshoeing trails, toboggan slides and skating areas. Daniel Webster, our distinguished American statesman, taught at Fryeburg Academy, eking out his modest salary of $350 a year by copying deeds for the county registry. Longfellow's first poem, written at the age of thirteen, had for its theme "Lovewell's Fight," a sanguinary battle in which thirty-three white men engaged one hundred Indians upon the shore of the pond in Fryeburg which bears the name of the white leader, Lovewell. A branch office of the Maine Publicity Bureau is located in the central square on the main street.

FRYEBURG

Beautiful, Picturesque Old Maine Village

Has retained the typical atmosphere of a farming community in spite of the thousands of summer visitors who come to camp along its streams and beside its many ponds.

Located in the Saco River valley, 50 miles from Portland, in the foothills of the White Mountains.

Six boys' and girls' camps, accommodating several hundred boys and girls, two fine hotels, numerous old colonial houses open for tourists and many public camps and cottages on the ponds make it easy for visitors to find the kind of accommodation they desire.

Fryeburg offers much to the vacationists: brook trout fishing in the streams, pickerel, bass and white perch fishing in the many ponds; safe, clean, sandy beaches for bathing; interesting mountain trails for the hiker and good deer hunting for the hunter.

Plan your winter vacation here. Trails for the expert skier, open slopes for beginners. Toboggan Chute—Skating Rink—Old Fashioned Sleigh Rides—Snowshoeing.

Come and join in the fun.

MAINE INVITES YOU

LEWISTON, Maine's second largest city, is in the heart of the Androscoggin river valley amid beautiful hills and streams and the center of a flourishing textile industry. It is the gateway to fishing and orcharding country. Its scenic feature is its Lewiston Falls, a handsome cataract. Auburn, just across the river, is a city of fine homes and handsome, elm-shaded streets and is a city of shoe manufacturing. Lewiston is well known for its textile mills.

Bates College at Lewiston is one of the leading colleges in New England, a co-education college famed for its champion international debating teams.

Lewiston is a distributing center by motor to Winthrop, Augusta, the Belgrade Lakes and points north, east and through Lisbon Falls to Brunswick, Bath and coastal points and north to the White Mountains.

OXFORD COUNTY, which perhaps, geographically, should include the town of Poland, in which Poland Spring and Summit Spring are located, has long been known as one of the scenic regions in New England. The "Oxford Hills" is a by-word of comparison in thousands of homes throughout the length and breadth of the country, and the magnet that draws hundreds of southern New England and New York people to Maine every summer.

CANTON, on the shores of Anasagunticook, is in southern Oxford County and presents many of its characteristics of hills and valleys, lakes and streams.

NORTH TURNER, SOUTH PARIS, PARIS HILL AND NORWAY are enterprising communities of scenic attractions and historic interest. One will soon be infatuated with the marvelous old homes that preserve their colonial architecture. About a mile away from Paris is the famous Mount Mica where the most valuable tourmalines ever found in the State of Maine have been mined. Because of beautiful Lake Penesseewassee at one end of the village, Norway is a most popular summer resort. The old Squires farm, the scene of C. A. Stephens' stories of home life, is on a picturesque ridge in Norway.

BETHEL is said by many to be one of the prettiest villages in New England, and anyone who has driven up Broad Street on Bethel Hill in mid-summer, will not question the statement. The Sunday and Bear rivers are well-known among the fishermen around Bethel, and they are easily accessible by good roads. Broad Street leads up to Paradise Hill, so-called because it is a long, hard climb to reach the top and the view is a fitting climax.

The new Evans Notch highway will be open for travel in the summer of 1937. It has been built from Gilead, just west of Bethel, to North Chatham, Chatham and Stow and takes you through virgin country offering incomparable mountain scenery.

POLAND SPRING, south of Oxford County and east of the Sebago Lake region and yet a gateway of both is Poland Spring, one of the best known resorts in the world. Its numerous attractions, the beauty of its grounds, its baths—among the finest in America—its remarkable golf course, its tennis courts, its facilities for boating, bathing and fishing, are familiar to everyone. No one has truly seen Maine without visiting Poland Spring and quaffing a draught of the superb spring water from the spring itself.

It may be of historical interest to some to learn that the Poland Spring House is located on the old homestead estate of Wentworth Ricker. In 1794 Jabez Ricker, with his four sons and six daughters, arrived and settled in a small house on the land south of the present Mansion House. In 1795, the building comprising the northwest corner of the present Mansion House was commenced. This building was first occupied in 1796, and during the following year was finished as an inn; a signpost was erected at the northwest corner with the sign bearing the words: "Wentworth Ricker, 1797."

Also in the town of Poland is another well known spring, Summit Spring, and the Summit Spring Hotel and bungalows on a beautiful rise of land across the valley from Poland Spring and facing the White Mountain range and with a fine golf course and all the accessories of a successful summer resort.

MAINE INVITES YOU

RUMFORD is a town of great paper mills. One mill has been entrusted with the manufacture and printing of the postal cards used by the United States Government.

About three miles from Rumford and nearly half a mile above the sea at Mount Zircon is the famous "moontide spring." The normal flow of the spring is forty-two gallons a minute, the waters ebb and flow with the phases of the moon, increasing to sixty gallons a minute on the full moon.

WILTON, the home of the Bass Shoes and with a beautiful lake bordered by towering mountains with Mount Blue in the distance, is a delightful scenic and vacation center.

WELD, surrounded by mountains, Mount Blue in particular, invites the vacationist to a delightful sojourn in its small inns, overnight camps or in a cottage on the shore of Lake Webb, affording excellent trout fishing.

FARMINGTON, birthplace of Lillian Nordica, opera singer, is a typical Maine town. Clearwater Pond is nearby covering a thousand acres, and girdled with forests, shadowing cool waters in which togue are said to attain a weight of fifteen pounds. Varnum Pond is another nearby well known salmon waters.

CANOEING AND CAMPING

Maine's 2,500 lakes and 5,000 rivers and streams offer many opportunities for interesting trips for canoeing and camping. The principal canoe trips are the Allagash River, the St. John River, Fish River Chain of Lakes, Rangeley Lakes Chain, the Belgrade Chain, the Kennebec Chain, the Grand Lake Chain, the West Branch of the Penobscot, and the East Branch of the Penobscot. These are mostly located in the wild land district.

There are many shorter trips where guides are not required though permission for camping and building fires must first be obtained from the owner of the property. A law of the State does not allow non-residents to camp and kindle fires in the wild land district unless accompanied by a registered guide or using the public camp sites established by the Forestry Department.

RANGELEY LAKES REGION—One of Maine's most famous chain of inland waters is the Rangeley Lakes, popular as resorts because of their accessibility, through Rumford, Wilson's Mills, Turner, Farmington and other gateways. The Rangeley Lakes, with their curious Indian names, are five in number and are connected by narrow waterways. Eager fishermen go there in spring, and in summer vacation seekers descend upon the country of Oquossoc and Rangeley, Mooselookmeguntic, Upper and Lower Richardson, Parmachenee, Cupsuptic, Loon and Kennebago.

They have an altitude of 1,500 feet above sea level and cover an area of about 80 square miles, the center of a wonderful lake and forest country, abounding in some of the finest fishing that America affords as well as good hunting. There is trolling in the lakes and fly fishing in Kennebago and Cupsuptic Streams and in the five mile Rapid River running from Middle Dam to Sunday Cove. A new highway to be opened in 1937 from Oquossoc to Wilson's Mills will open up virgin fishing waters and a splendid hunting country. It is the new gateway of direct motor travel from the Upper White Mountain Region into Northwestern Maine.

Where formerly this entire region knew only the flannel woods shirt and heavy clothing worn by men, we now find the light summer gowns and sport clothes of summer vacation resort society. You may enjoy the romance of living in a log cabin, but you will have the best of beds, open fires, bath rooms and verandas.

In no other country in the world are found such large, square-tailed red-spot trout. Salmon introduced some years ago have now reached a large size.

Haines Landing on Mooselookmeguntic Lake, is the hub of the Rangeley Region. Water routes, wood trails and automobile roads lead to all parts of the great network of lakes, streams and forests. Nearby is Kennebago Stream, a famous trout-spawning ground, and fly fishing only is permitted. Near the head of Cupsuptic Lake is Pleasant Island. Parmachenee Lake, a wild and beautiful sheet of water, is visited by the more adventurous sportsmen.

Bald Mountain, on the south from Haines Landing, rises to a height of 1,000 feet. The "Big Pool" as it is MARANACOOK, MONMOUTH, WINTHROP, READFIELD—In Central Maine are the Kennebec and Belgrade chains of lakes. Between Lakes Maranacook and Annabessacook, lies the pretty country town of Winthrop. Few Maine towns are so completely surrounded by fine large lakes as Winthrop. Kennebec chain comprises Maranacook, Cobbosseecontee, Torsey and Pleasant Lakes and others that outlet into the Kennebec River. Lake Maranacook has for years been building up a reputation for good bass and trout fishing, with ample accommodations at Maranacook. Lake Cobbosseecontee, over 9 miles long, is the largest of the Kennebec Chain a natural bass lake and has perhaps the greatest variety of fishing to be found. The Woolworth family have been very generous in placing thousands of chinook and landlocked salmon, square tail and rainbow trout in the lake.

AUGUSTA, the capital city, has attractions in itself close by the many lakes of the Kennebec section. Fort Western on the east bank of the Kennebec River in Augusta has been restored and is a museum of early days when Maine was making history, and Arnold made his march to Quebec. Maine's State House is one of the most beautiful in the country. The corner stone was laid in 1829. It is built of Maine Hallowell granite and the graceful tower was designed by Charles Bulfinch. The female figure that surmounts the dome was designed by W. Clark Noble of Gardiner, Maine.

BANGOR, 60 miles from the sea, terminal of navigation on the Penobscot, is one of the chief cities of Maine in point of population and trade importance. Handsome residences on broad, shaded streets are homes of wealthy and influential citizens of the State. The social order is characterized by good taste and hospitality. Excellent hotels are found here, and the city is a distributing point to the playgrounds of the eastern Maine shore, northern and eastern woods and lake regions, and to those which lie beyond the international frontier. It is close by the famous Bangor salmon pool from which the first sea salmon caught in the spring is sent each year to the President of the United States.

On the way to Bangor from Waterville is Unity Lake in the town of Burnham offering good bass, perch and pickerel fishing, bathing, boating and nearby golf clubs.

The sharp clean tang of an ocean breeze,
The wind as it rustles through the trees—
The steady gleam of a beacon light
In its lonely vigil throughout the night,
Means Maine to me.

A flock of wild geese flying high
The warning cry of a hawk nearby—
A river that winds for miles on end
With a lovelier view beyond each bend—
Means Maine to me.

A rambling farm-house, a tiny town—
A curfew that rings as the sun goes down—
A lonely pine on a distant hill—
The singing buzz of an old saw-mill—
Means Maine to me.

The gleam of snow in the clear star-light
The Northern Lights on a winter's night—
A crescent moon in the sky that beams
As it watches over a Land of Dreams—
Means Maine to me.

MAINE INVITES YOU

THE CITY OF WATERVILLE is a delightful elm-shaded city of business activity, the seat of Colby College, and a gateway to the Belgrade Lakes region and northern and eastern central Maine. It is on the direct route for motorists travelling via Jackman to Quebec, to the Moosehead Country, the big woods and to Bangor. It is a convenient stopping place for travellers who enjoy one day fishing and motoring trips to lakes and the comforts of a hotel at night.

THE BELGRADE LAKES chain embracing Belgrade Lakes Village, North Belgrade, Rome, Mount Vernon, Vienna, Smithfield and Oakland, has long been famous among anglers who consider the small-mouth black bass the supreme fighter of all fish. The angler who demands action will find a rushing, leaping type of fighting game fish who hits his bait, fly or spinner with a swirling rush and is never subdued until landed. Fly-fishing for black bass begins the first of June and continues into and through July and later comes on again to hold through the middle of September.

As soon as the ice goes out, fishing for salmon starts. The Belgrade Lakes Region also offers good square-tail trout fishing. White perch and pickerel are also abundant. Careful and periodical planting of different fish in large quantities has made the Belgrade waters among the best for all-around fishing.

There are thirteen boys' and girls' summer camps in the Belgrade Region besides the many adult camps, farms, hotels and inns.

Oakland is a gateway to the greater part of the Belgrade Lakes region also reached through Belgrade Village. Mount Vernon is on the western border.

ALONG THE JACKMAN HIGHWAY

At Lakewood, just a short distance from Skowhegan, a beautiful summer colony centers around a modern theatre where a company of Broadway stars presents a series of Broadway stage successes throughout the summer season. An excellent hard-surfaced highway stretches north from Lakewood through Bingham with its famous Wyman Dam with side trip to Carry Pond and on to Quebec. The route is over the so-called Jackman highway through Caratunk, the gateway to Pierce Pond, The Forks, named because of the confluence of the waters of the Dead River which have flowed down from the hills and lakes of Franklin County to join those of the Kennebec, which have come from Moosehead Lake. The Forks, Troutdale on Lake Moxie, Indian Pond reached via Tar-ratine, Lake Parlin and Jackman sections are fishing and hunting centers of renown. The lakes have an abundance of trout, land-locked salmon and togue. There are partridge, woodcock and other game birds, deer and many bear.

Jackman is a friendly town with shops, hotels, restaurants and tourists' accommodations, service stations and garages, picture theatre, bank, library, four churches (Catholic, Congregational, Episcopalian and Nazarene), telephones, telegraph and a spirited Board of Trade.

At Jackman an excellent highway extends to Rockwood on the shores of Moosehead Lake and across the lake are far famed Kineo and Kineo Mountain. A fine new highway extends south from Rockwood to Greenville crossing the West and East Outlets of Moosehead which flow into the Kennebec river, thence through Squaw Mountain Township on the southern shore of Moosehead Lake.

Jackman

(Ma

PICTURE a great summer playground of one thousand square miles, 40 long by 25 wide—large as the state of Rhode Island—composed of 28 "wild land" townships each 36 square miles! This suggests the enormous expanse of the Jackman Region, but tells only a part of the story. It fails to convey an adequate picture of the vacation opportunities of this far flung recreation area whose towering mountains pierce the clouds 3000 feet—of the vast, unbroken forest extending from the Forks on the Kennebec, 43 miles to the Canadian line—of the magnificence of numberless clear, sparkling lakes, set like diamonds in the green plush of spruce and pine and pungent fir—of rushing "white water" where hungry, fighting salmon await the fly and sporty trout lie in deep, dark pools—of little rivers that weave a net of wilderness waterways for the canoeist and camper—of moose and deer and all wild life—of motor trips through mountain passes and quaint historic towns—or of the joyous vacation days awaiting you in the picturesque town of Jackman, Me., the last frontier in this great unspoiled Region on the historic "Indian trail" highway leading to Quebec. The summer climate is ideal and hay fever unknown.

Heart of the Big Woods

MOOSEHEAD LAKE—Everywhere from the water's edge extends the forests that provide the setting for Moosehead Lake. Located in the western central part of the State, 1,023 feet above sea level surrounded by splendid spruce and fir balsam forests, it has become universally recognized as a health resort and famous for its unexcelled trout and salmon fishing in the lake, and in Moose River, the outlet of Brassua Lake.

LILY BAY is almost a lake in itself and separated from Moosehead by Sugar Island. This bay has for years been a fishing center of high repute.

WEST OUTLET is a stream that offers much of interest to the stream fisherman and where the East Outlet flows from Moosehead Lake into the Kennebec is one of the best trout pools in this section.

AT INDIAN POND where the East and West Outlets join, forming the Kennebec River headwaters and flow out again as the East Branch of the Kennebec, there is excellent stream fly-fishing in June and September, with opportunity for canoe trips up or down stream with good fishing all the way.

In the Moosehead country the canoeist will enjoy himself to the full. Northwest Carry and Northeast Carry, at the head of the lake, and Ripogenus Dam at the foot of Chesuncook Lake, are points of departure for several of the best canoe trips known the world over, notably the Allagash and the West Branch trips.

From Greenville you can drive 45 miles over an excellent highway to Ripogenus Dam, a marvel of engineering skill, built by the Great Northern Paper Company in the wilderness at the head of West Branch Gorge on the West Branch of the Penobscot River. Permission to travel over the Dam must be obtained from the Great Northern Paper Company headquarters at Bangor or Millinocket. The highway continues on through the Katahdin, Kidney Pond and Togue Pond country to Millinocket.

On the westerly shore of Moosehead Lake is Squaw Mountain and township with inspiring views of the lake and surrounding territory, golf links, and all the appurtenances of a favored inland lake resort. Just outside the town of Greenville on the easterly side of the lake on the way to Lily Bay is Blair Hill from the top of which one has an unsurpassed view of Moosehead lake with its many islands and bays. Continuing the road passes through Lily Bay, Kokadjo and on to the Dam. No permit is required to travel over the splendid highways of the Great Northern Paper Co., but a permit is required to cross Ripogenus Dam obtainable from the paper company's office in Bangor or Millinocket.

From the opening of the season in May to its close, October 1st, the catches of trout, land-locked salmon, and togue in Moosehead Lake probably exceed those in any other body of water in America.

SEBEC LAKE, south of Moosehead Lake, is thirteen miles long and is fed by more than seventy-five lesser lakes and ponds. One of the four original homes of the far famed Maine land-locked salmon. In recent years, the small-mouth black bass fishing has been growing and Sebec is regarded as among the best bass waters in the State. It is reached by way of Dover-Foxcroft or Guilford.

TO LIST the fishing waters in the north Maine woods country would mean an endless catalogue. There are numerous lakes and streams, dozens of fine basins famous for fishing, and farther north in western and northern Aroostook County are waters that have come rapidly into prominence. All these waters offer exceptionally fine sport and the salmon and trout taken from these waters are unsurpassed for size and gaminess.

A gateway for climbing Mount Katahdin is the new highway opened in 1934 from Millinocket branching off to Windy Pitch, continuing on through the Katahdin country, following the waters of the West Branch in sight of the mountain and joining the older highway from Greenville via Ripogenus Dam to Sourdnhunk Stream, so that the circuit trip can now be made.

MT. KATAHDIN (from the Indian Ktaadn, the preeminent) is the monarch of Maine mountains. Thrusting its spruce clad slopes and rocky summit a mile into the clouds, this giant of the East is the first spot in the United States to greet the morning sun. ISLAND FALLS AND PATTEN are gateways to many famous fishing lakes and streams and among the hundreds of northern lakes in Maine, none offer finer salmon fishing than do St. Froid Lake reached from Quimby, Square Lake reached from Guerette and Eagle Lake on the main line, and many others in the wilderness section of Northern Aroostook County and nowhere do the fish run larger. One of the big advantages of these cold north-Maine waters is, that there is good fly-fishing practically throughout the summer.

Aroostook County Invites You---and Promises You a Vacationland Unspoiled.

WHEN you holiday in Maine's Aroostook County, you get a vacation veritably a la carte. If you wish to rough it, you find thousands of miles of forest and fresh water just begging you to come and hunt, fish, canoe, mountain-climb, and hike. If you prefer the de luxe type of relaxation, hundreds of miles of smooth-surfaced highways beckon to you and woo you with fine, modern hotels, delightful sporting camps, wayside camps, farm houses, golf courses, tennis courts, swimming pools, swimmin' holes, and unlimited trails on which to exercise a horse. If your desires breathe heavily with adventure, you can reach your destination via buckboard, saddle horse, boat-and-carry, canoe, or pedal extremities. If your wishes are more gentle, your own auto, a plane, or a train will transport you where you will. In this instance, you will experience true ecstasy in Maine's log-cabin idea which has seized upon popular favor. You live in detached cabins with all the privacy, comfort, and convenience of a summer home, dine at a central point, and enjoy perfect freedom of movement and dress.

Teasing Nimrod and Isaak Walton

Aroostook County bows to no other natural reservoir of hunting and fishing. Truly are the Big Woods in northern Aroostook County called the "Happy Hunting Grounds." Big game? Yes, indeed, if you will be satisfied to find moose, deer, black bear but can shoot a moose only with a camera. Armies, too, of small game including partridge, woodcock, squirrel, rabbit, fox (red, gray, and black), coon, beaver, mink, muskrat, otter, bobcat, and lynx. Hundreds of angling waters invite you to test your skill with a variety of salmon without a peer—and with togue, black bass, perch, pickerel, and trout. If you like to combine a bit of traveling with your sport, the Fish River Chain of lakes and streams is outstanding. The total canoeing distance is 100 miles and you will find some quick water to afford you great sport and a thrill per second. On one of these trips you will find opportunity to get to know the famous Maine guide—to learn that, skilled and rugged, he can prepare a toothsome snack jiffy-quick, take you into forbidding forests to any depth and get you out, pole or paddle you safely through rough, boiling water, or steer you through with motor or canoe. One of these Aroostook County breakfasts (trout, Maine potato well baked, johnny cake, and perhaps blueberries) helps to introduce you to the Aroostook County products.

Mere Mention of Food

Perhaps it is not amiss to remind vacationers that when they come to Maine, they are visiting the most glorious potato patch in the United States—and the largest, too. This is particularly true of Aroostook County which accounts for approximately 85% of Maine's 55 millions of bushels of potatoes. That is one reason why leading economists insist that it is wise to invest not only health but also wealth in Maine. On its million acres of farm land, Aroostook County also raises delicious blueberries, apples, and corn. That makes it easier for Aroostook County's hospitable folks to entertain visitors in a manner befitting. If you want to know why, or if you have questions of any nature concerning Aroostook County, drop a line to the Aroostook Development Association, Aroostook County, Maine.

WIN A PRIZE VACATION

We are again presenting to you in this edition of "Maine Invites You" the family of Dad, Mother, Junior, Sister and Scotty who were born last year in the creative mind of our artist, Lloyd Coe.

They are a year older this year, strange as it may seem, and they have learned to disport themselves in more active occupation of the hours that go into each day's enjoyment, of the many diversions that make up a well rounded Maine vacation program.

We know that you will grant that they are having a right good time because their happiness is self evident. No matter what the day's program may be, each sunshine hour is filled to the brim. They beckon you to "come up and see us," join in their sports, their every day pleasures, and enjoy those restful nights that build up for the active fall months, the rounds of school, holiday and social activities, and to enter into the plans which they are already making, to come again for the joys of Maine's Winter Sports activities.

They are a wide awake happy family. You will love them as we love them, laugh at their antics, sympathize with them in their mishaps and adventures and rejoice with them in renewed health, lengthened life and happiness.

BUT WHAT SHALL WE NAME THEM?

The "Swiss Family Robinson" doesn't seem to just fit as they may be of another nationality—WHAT DO YOU SUGGEST?

We MUST get them properly named before another year rolls round because we have decided to permanently adopt them,—so come on with your suggestions—and if you want to "bust into poetry" or prefer narrative form to briefly tell their vacation story, we will welcome such further contributions.

A TWO WEEKS' VACATION in 1938 at a medium priced hotel, camp or farm with board costs for two people paid by us, will go to the prize winner, the judges to be an outstanding news writer, an advertising councilor and the President of the State of Maine Hotel Association. Each contribution will be judged on its appeal merits so sign your name on a separate piece of paper. The contest closes September 30, 1937.

The gentleman on the horse (as you may have suspected) is no other than Paul Revere in person . . . announcing the coming of the British to The Copley-Plaza. The horse, of course, is Paul's horse.

If you think the doorman should register more excitement at the news, that's just because you don't understand that the British are not alone in their choice of this distinguished hotel in historical Copley Square. Important personages from practically every country in the world have, at one time or another, lived at The Copley-Plaza.

In a word, the British (and other arrivals) have a delightful experience in store for them . . . in fact, one delightful experience after another.

The Address Itself Is a Distinguished One

It represents gentle living in the quiet of New England's oldest traditions.

The Setting—Like a Page from History

Phillips Brooks' famous Old Trinity Church, the celebrated Boston Public Library, brilliant Commonwealth Avenue are its closest neighbors.

The Rooms Are the Essence of Quiet Comfort

—peaceful . . . spacious . . . airy . . . with luxurious beds and restful chairs . . . gracious, charming rooms . . . that you can "live in" . . . yet so moderately priced. Single rooms, $4.00; Double, $6.00; Suites, $10.00. All with bath.

As for Food—

The cuisine of The Copley-Plaza is known around the world . . . Carlo, creator of dishes that are poems of perfection, is responsible for them. And the gay, modern Merry-Go-Round cocktail bar will make your troubles vanish into thin air. Spread the alarm, Paul Revere!

If one would reap the purest and sanest delights of living, one must be brought under the ennobling influence of Nature. Every phase has something to teach us to make life more complete, more joyous. No drink at The Fountain of Youth could have such a rejuvenating effect as the song of the first song sparrow, bluebird or robin in the early spring. A walk in the woods in early spring reveals the resurrection of life in tree, shrub and flower.

From the first blossom of them all, Skunk Cabbage the lowly, (found on February 21 in this year of 1937) responding to the coaxing rays of the sun, to the late fall tangled yellow curls and amber eyes of the Witch Hazel the native flowers bring keen and lasting pleasure to a lover of nature.

Trailing Arbutus, at the call of the warming sun, shyly opens its eyes from winter sleep. The willows show definite life activity, clothing themselves in gray furs, rose-tinted. The Poplars also appear in fur accessories for they know the fickle nature of spring.

The Oriole's brilliant plumage, amid the fruit blossoms of May, the deep-tones blue of the Indigo Bunting, the gorgeous Rose-breasted Grosbeak with his exquisite rose-lined wings, singing his full-throated pleasure on a bough at the garden's edge, the dainty Ruby-throated Hummingbird flitting from flower to flower make an event, of our pleasure in field or wood.

The Warblers, gay in color and voice and equally restless invite our curiosity and excite our admiration. The bell-like tones of the Veery, oftentimes just a voice from a dense thicket, so shy is the songster, with the pure and holy anthem of the Hermit Thrush bring a message direct from heaven itself.

Man grows old. Trees attain full stature and decay. Beasts age and pass. To the nature lover's observing eye and trained ear, birds and their songs, flowers springing from the newly-warmed sod, are ageless and changeless.

It may not be the same Song Sparrow darting about in the bare shrubbery and rising to its summit to sing its cheerful happy song, but it is the same sort of bird with the same kindly message.

One can never come calmly upon the breath-taking beauty of hepaticas, in their lavender, pink, blue and white loveliness, even after a period of vast expectancy. The delicate white blood root, rolled carefully in its pink-veined green leaf protector, is of surpassing attractiveness.

No elaborate preparations, nor costly equipment is necessary to acquire a knowledge of all the gifts from Nature's lavish hand. A stroll along a quiet roadside, a walk down a woodland path or just a rock beneath a tree in a field or pasture offers the opportunity. One will always be repaid for hours of patient waiting and tired, cramped muscles, if one goes to Nature in a receptive mood. It may be that one will unexpectedly find on a short walk in familiar territory the flower, fern, or bird one has hunted for years.

Acadia National Park on Mount Desert Island, Katahdin Region and numerous other localities invite the nature student. The Audubon Nature Camp at Hog Island in Muscongus Bay offer courses under definite supervision of trained instructors. Knox Arboretum in Warren, adjacent to the Atlantic Highway is a quiet retreat of much interest to a lover of nature.

Varied attractions in plant and bird life is found along the long coastline of the State of Maine. As many as twenty-two Great Blue Herons, have been counted at low tide, from the bridge at Wiscasset, which joins the Island to the mainland of Edgecomb.

The flower and bird lists appended are but a small part of what the true naturalist, amateur or professional, may seek and find in Maine. These lists are verified lists of experienced nature students.

Maine Invites You in Winter, Too

By RAN SANFORD

Time was—and not so many years ago at that—when at the first tingle of really business-like frost, and with the first scurrying snowflakes out of the northwest, Maine would settle down to three months or more of virtual hibernation. Snow was looked upon more as a nuisance than anything else, except by the youngsters.

But that was yesterday.

Today, Maine is alive in winter—alive with the ruddy glow of good health that comes from fun out-of-doors. Maine's hills swarm week after week with happy crowds—toddlers on barrel-stave skis; old timers re-living bygone days with snowshoes resurrected from attic nooks. Maine has awakened to the thrilling discovery that winter, too, is playtime. And Maine wants to share that playtime with you.

The State has only begun to tap its marvelous resources for winter recreation—which are briefly a climate second to none in snow-producing and health-giving qualities, and a topography admirably suited to winter sports. But this traditionally "snowbound" state, its farthest corners now easily accessible over well plowed highways, has already provided plenty of playgrounds for snow fans.

Maine has dozens of ski trails, and new ones are constantly being added. These trails are plotted by experts, and cut by men who know what skiers want for thrills and need for safety. They are available for every class of skier.

From the tops of mountains that afford breath-taking winter panoramas themselves well worth the climb, expert trails dip to lower levels in thrilling "schuss" and curves that test the ablest skier's skill. Often they emerge on wide, open slopes where embryo skibirds, many times under the tutelage of expert instructors, "stem" a bit awkwardly down the hillsides and "herringbone" their way up again in an unceasing parade.

Intermediate trails provide the good skier who hasn't quite reached the top-notch stage with a full quota of thrills and spills, too, for they are all part of the fun. Novice courses, generally short and gentle enough for anyone who has acquired the rudiments of controlled skiing, dot the entire State. There is cross-country skiing, over level terrain, or up hill and down dale, as the skier desires. Old woods roads, never plowed, invite you to ski away on a fascinating, personal expedition of exploration that is sure to reveal a myriad of mysterious paw-print paths made by shy woods creatures, invariably a few winter birds who noisily protest your intrusion upon their privacy, and always a wealth of magnificent snow scenes for your camera lens.

Skiing in Maine may be thrilling, boisterous; or it may be quiet, reflective. In the latter phase it is joined by the age-old sport of snowshoeing. Toboggan fans, too, find carefully maintained chutes, or steep, untracked hillsides at every hand in winterbound Maine. And there is no end of ice sports. Maine's profusion of lakes, when winter comes, hides away under an icy cover. Over the glassy ice skim thousands of skaters. Many of the larger lakes afford the opportunity for that supreme thrill of speed that comes only in ice-boating.

You will love Maine in winter, from the very moment that you gather 'round the festive board in a snug Maine farmhouse. You'll tell stories—perhaps of skiing, perhaps of summers you've spent in Maine—and listen to others tell theirs. Then you'll snuggle down under a mountain of covers in a soft bed, listen to a howling wind whip snowflakes in stinging staccato against the window-pane.

You'll be up with the sun—in time to see its rosy climb over a receding wall of gray clouds into the sparkling blue sky. The earth will have been transformed. Deep, powdery Maine snow covers everything; every tree in its grotesque white blanket is a subject for a painter's brush.

As yet the expanse is trackless, but not for long. The heartiest breakfast you've eaten in months—and quite likely the best, too—goes right to the spot and you're out in the sparkling, white world with a whoop of joy. The world is yours, and you're out to enjoy it.

Come to Maine in winter, and learn a new, unforgettable thrill in life! Let's go!

"You Ain't Seen Nuthin' Yet"

A SHORT, SHORT STORY

Reprint by Permission of the New England Council

The old Yankee lobster fisherman rubbed his grizzled chin and surveyed with genial eyes the young couple before him. "No," he repeated, "you ain't seen nuthin' yet. That's the trouble with you folks."

The girl smiled. "Trouble?"

"Sure." The old man searched his pockets for his corn-cob, his gaze wandering off across the bay to the distant line of fir-capped islands. He scratched his head thoughtfully.

"Ordinarily," he said finally, "I don't go handin' out advice that ain't asked for. But you people come way up here to New England to have a good time."

"And we've certainly had it," commented the young man.

The fisherman nodded. "You been up through the mountains, you drove along the coast. You been swimmin' here in God Amighty's ocean, you been playin' golf, battin' tennis balls around a court, ridin' them fancy hosses they got up at the hotel, breathin' this fine air, an' a-romancin' around. Now you're goin' home—when all you seen and done here is only the—wha' do them people down at the summer playhouse call it?—the prologue. Why, New England in autumn"—he was warming to his subject—"there ain't nuthin' like it nowhere!" He pointed his pipe-stem toward the undulating line of hills. "What's the color o' them hills?"

"Green."

"Sure they're green. But two or three weeks from now they're goin' to be red an' orange, yella, brown, green, blue—all decked out like a peacock on a holiday. Yes sir! Them colors is worth anybody's time! An' corn-fields full o' punkins, orchards red with apples, cider right out o' the press, an' a harvest moon hung up there like a big copper dipper! Why, New England ain't ripe till after Labor Day!"

And, what do we see in September and October after Maine is "ripe"! Great splashes of brilliant maples, shining bronze-leaved oaks, birch and beech as tawny as a lion's mane. Scarlet flamed sumac, red cheeked apples clinging to sepia colored branches, yellow pumpkins against the brown earth or grasses of mauve. Green fields of second crop grass looking out of place as though it had come at the wrong time, in patches contrasting with the brown of newly fall plowed earth and the tan of cornfields. Days are crystal clear and distant hills and mountains stand out clean cut as cameos, yet at times there is a haze in the air, a soft far away blue haze, that is dissipated as we ride into it, ghostly smoke from the Indian camp fires of long ago. The hills swell and dip, brown with the newly turned earth of fall plowing, yellow with their grain stubbles, russet brown with their corn. There is a quietness upon the earth, as though nature had set aside the month for communion. The evenings are cool, the nights frosty, the mornings balmy, the afternoons warm as summer, only to slip again into the cool of evening and the frostiness of night.

New England golf courses are greener. Days are warm enough to swim and cool enough to enjoy tennis, golf, horse sports, hiking. Nights are ideal for sleep. Many hotels and inns have lower rates after Labor Day. County fairs are in full swing and the calendar of interesting events is crowded. There is every reason to stay on after Labor Day. And, every vacationist who is already here, has this extra fun at no expense for getting here.

"Gone to Maine"

In a country of paths, seekers may take any one of them, but finders take the right one! In a country of many states, one may go north, south, east, or west, but no one is more lucky than he who chooses the path to MAINE! The quaint charm of this State, whose historic annals make a vivid pine-scented old tapestry interwoven with tales of allegiance to the spirit of her heroes, catches the imagination with a firm grip never to be lessened. The admirer of the living past must really come "way down in Maine" himself in order to reconstruct more accurately one of the first of our early American frontiers,—and, in this case, a frontier held by small bands of colonists along the coast living in tense watch for signal flares designed to beacon forth messages of choking fear when trouble loomed with the Indians who claimed the nearby forests! But today this is a land where fascinating old villages are supplemented, at not too-distant points, with progressive towns and modern cities. Likewise, today, under the planetarium of Maine skies from coast to high western boundaries is laid out every design of beauty which anyone through mood or fancy might choose. The kaleidoscopic scenery of Maine's restful hills — clusters of trees, farm lands, mile on mile, with picturesque New England's farm houses and mammoth barns—adds a never-ending contrast to the rockiest of rock-bound coasts where the white-capped waves dash in as untamed today as the day the old Vikings came in with a restless tide . . . One must, by all means, take this path to Maine to find where nature is the most extravagant with her autumn color fads. One must come to Maine to catch the simple beauty of lakes in the sunlit aftermath of a fall rain, or, through a fresh fog, to see distant hills the color of blue morning-glories semicircled with a deep wooded foreground sending forth a pearly glow of red and gold pure as the maples that produce the phenomenon. . . With fifty-eight mountains networked with trails, with over two thousand lakes mirrored against an ethereal sky, with five large rivers and five thousand smaller ones, with limitless woods to complete the variety of her landscape as well as furnish pine needle carpets to cushion the tread of all who enter her timbered sanctuaries, truly, Maine is "an unspoiled playground, aloof and yet accessible." No toll is demanded ever in exchange for pleasure. One pays only with the tribute of his presence, for, unlike many other sections of our country, the beauty of this State and the greatness of this State have been most admirably an unconscious beauty and an unconscious greatness! . . . And when this land has been traversed with an exterior view, there is still much more, for enshrined in the homes of Maine are hearth logs burning today with a glow of friendship as warm and as genuine as when they were first kindled by that first little band of pioneer colonizers. From these homes, too, come the youth of Maine—the live, hardy, future custodians of all that has thus far been preserved. They are also pioneers and pioneers in their own right! Their forefathers have given them this land fresh in its primeval grandeur, unexcelled in its landmarks pointing to centuries of historic uniqueness, and yet modern in its every way of living. A unique land, this is, and one that can never be forgotten. . . So I should say that every American who has not seen this part of his America, and who is subject to the lure of unusual and delightful adventure, should at some time during his life have good reason to close his doors and put up the sign G. T. M! (Gone To Maine)

Sincerely,
A Visitor,—
