Class Hymn.

Words by M. STELLA WEEKS.

Music by KATE L. HURLEY.

As we the Class of Eighty-Eight
Are gathered here to-day,
Recalling memories of the years
We've spent in work and play;
We linger, and in vain defer
The hour when we must part,
We voice in song the farewell words,
The echoes of the heart.

We've labored hard from day to day,
Each duty to fulfil,
But oftentimes we've failed indeed
To do that duty well.
Yet may we all in years to come,
With earnest hearts and true,
Strive to attain the highest aim,
Our Master's will to do.

Now as we end these happy years,
And break the golden ties,
Let each remember in his heart
That friendship never dies.
And though we all in life's fair path
Should chance to meet no more,
We trust the Class of Eighty-Eight
May meet on Heaven's bright shore.
