CLASS ODE

CHRISTINE AND CORA SHAW.

We have come, classmates dear, to the parting of ways;
Nevermore the same paths we shall tread:
But wherever Fate leads us, we'll never forget
All the happy school days that have fled.

REFRAIN

We may roam the wide world, we may sail the wide sea,
But whether on ocean or land,
We shall see mirrored bright in sweet Mem'ry's clear light
Every member of this loyal band.

We have youth—its high hopes and its courage to-day,
While Fortune is calling us on;
Through the world's open portals come sounds of the fray
That tell us life's battle's begun. REFRAIN.

Ere we breathe our farewells, let our voices in song
Rise once more in harmonious strain,
While Faith whispers and Hope, though the parting be long
At last we shall all meet again. REFRAIN.
